1. Integrating Psychological Contracts and Ecosystems in Career Studies and Management

在职业研究与管理中整合心理契约与生态系统

Authors / 作者: Yehuda Baruch, Denise M. Rousseau

DOI: 10.5465/annals.2016.0103

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Psychological contracts, an individual's system of beliefs regarding exchange arrangements, are key components in the construction and development of individual careers and the career systems of organizations and societies. In explicating careers and their management, multiple stakeholders are increasingly relevant to worker psychological contracts as individuals shoulder greater responsibility for their own careers and seek resources and ties with diverse career agents. The roles played by stakeholders who serve as career agents vary as a function of the larger career ecosystem in which the individual is embedded. We offer an ecosystems perspective as a bridge for understanding the intersection between psychological contracts, careers and the multiple stakeholders of each.

心理契约是个体关于交换安排的信念系统，是构建和发展个人职业生涯以及组织和社会职业体系的关键组成部分。在阐释职业及其管理时，随着个体为自己的职业承担更大责任并寻求与各种职业代理人的资源和联系，多方利益相关者与劳动者的心理契约变得日益相关。作为职业代理人的利益相关者所扮演的角色，随个体所处的更大职业生态系统的变化而变化。我们提供了一个生态系统视角，作为理解心理契约、职业以及各自多方利益相关者之间交集的桥梁。

2. Being Your True Self at Work: Integrating the Fragmented Research on Authenticity in Organizations

在工作中做真实的自己：整合组织中真实性研究的碎片化现状

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

In tandem with a surge of public interest in authenticity, there is a growing number of empirical studies on individual authenticity in work settings. However, these studies have been generated within separate literatures on topics such as authentic leadership, emotional labor, and identity management, among many others, making it difficult for scholars to integrate and build on the authenticity research to date. To facilitate and advance future investigations, this article reviews the extant empirical work across 10 different authenticity constructs. Following our research review, we use a power lens to help synthesize our major findings and insights. We conclude by identifying six directions for future research, including the need for scholars to embrace a multifaceted view of authenticity in organizations. Overall, our review both reinforces and tempers the enthusiasm in contemporary discussions of authenticity in the popular and business press.

摘要 (中文):

随着公众对真实性兴趣的激增，关于工作环境中个体真实性的实证研究也日益增多。然而，这些研究产生于各自独立的文献领域，如真实型领导、情绪劳动和身份管理等，这使得学者们难以整合并借鉴迄今为止的真实性研究成果。为了促进和推进未来的调查，本文回顾了涵盖 10 个不同真实性构念的现有实证工作。在研究回顾之后，我们利用权力的视角来帮助合成我们的主要发现和见解。最后，我们确定了未来研究的六个方

向，包括学者需要采纳组织中真实性的多维视角。总的来说，我们的综述既增强也缓和了大众和商业媒体在当代关于真实性讨论中的热情。

3. Turning Lead into Gold: How Do Entrepreneurs Mobilize Resources to Exploit Opportunities?

点石成金：创业者如何动员资源以利用机会？

Authors / 作者: David R. Clough, Tommy Pan Fang, Balagopal Vissa, Andy Wu

Year / 时间: 2019 · Vol. 13, Issue 1 · pp. 240-271

DOI: 10.5465/annals.2016.0132

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

The mobilization of resources is a central and defining feature of entrepreneurship. As the body of empirical research on entrepreneurial resource mobilization has grown, the literature has become increasingly fragmented. We review the literature on entrepreneurs' mobilization of resources, spanning human, social, financial, and other forms of capital. We identify five critical issues that hold back progress in resource mobilization research. We then propose a path ahead for future research guided by two overarching goals. First, we advocate for a process perspective, focusing attention on how an individual actor's disposition and situation shape her responses, how these responses interact with those of other actors, and how these individual and collective responses unfold over time to generate outcomes. Second, we call for stronger unification of theory within the entrepreneurial resource mobilization literature and across contiguous conversations in strategy and organization theory. Theoretical consilience will enable the accumulation of empirical research into a cohesive body of knowledge on entrepreneurial resource mobilization.

资源的动员是创业的核心和定义性特征。随着关于创业资源动员的实证研究不断增加，相关文献变得日益碎片化。我们回顾了关于创业者动员资源的文献，涵盖了人力、社会、金融和其他形式的资本。我们识别了阻碍资源动员研究进展的五个关键问题。随后，在两个总体目标的指导下，我们为未来的研究提出了一条前进路径。首先，我们倡导一种过程视角，关注个体行动者的特质和情境如何塑造其反应，这些反应如何与其他行动者的反应相互作用，以及这些个体和集体反应如何随时间演变并产生结果。其次，我们呼吁在创业资源动员文献内部，以及战略和组织理论的相关对话之间，加强理论的统一。理论的融通将使实证研究能够积累成一个关于创业资源动员的凝聚性知识体系。

4. Conflict Management through the Lens of System Dynamics

系统动力学视角下的冲突管理

Authors / 作者: Matthew A. Cronin, Katerina Bezrukova

Year / 时间: 2019 · Vol. 13, Issue 2 · pp. 770-806

DOI: 10.5465/annals.2017.0021

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

A fundamental concern in conflict management research is characterizing (dys)functional conflict; what is missing from this conversation is dynamics. We thus provide a systematic analysis of the ways in which dynamics have been investigated in prior conflict research and show how dynamics have been incompletely explained even when the research intended to focus on such dynamic processes. We demonstrate how the conceptual frameworks used to study conflict are not built to capture dynamic change and review a different framework, the system dynamics (SD) framework, as a means to move beyond linear causality. We next show how using the SD framework we can reinterpret and synthesize a multitude of static cause and effect findings from across levels of analysis in conflict research. We demonstrate how this framework may solve some of the Gordian knots in research on conflict utility (e.g., why task conflict may not be as helpful as it is theorized). We close with suggestions for how to use the SD framework to advance the study of conflict beyond what linear causality can provide and capture conflict dynamics in a more substantial way.

摘要 (中文):

冲突管理研究的一个核心关注点是界定（功能失调性）冲突；而这一对话中缺失的是动态性。因此，我们对以往冲突研究中考察动态性的方式进行了系统分析，并展示了即使在旨在关注此类动态过程的研究中，动态性也未能得到充分解释。我们论证了用于研究冲突的概念框架并非为捕捉动态变化而设计，并回顾了一个不同的框架——系统动力学（SD）框架，作为超越线性因果关系的一种手段。接着，我们展示了如何利用系统动力学框架来重新解释和综合冲突研究中跨分析层级的众多静态因果发现。我们证明了该框架如何解决冲突效用研究中的一些“戈耳狄俄斯之结”（例如，为什么任务冲突可能并不像理论推导的那样有益）。最后，我们提出了如何利用系统动力学框架来推动冲突研究超越线性因果关系的局限，并以更实质性的方式捕捉冲突动态。

5. Tradition in Organizations: A Custodianship Framework

组织中的传统：一个守护框架

Authors / 作者: M. Tina Dacin, Peter A. Dacin, Derin Kent

Year / 时间: 2019 · Vol. 13, Issue 1 · pp. 342-373

DOI: 10.5465/annals.2016.0122

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

The study of tradition has become increasingly important in management research explaining phenomena as diverse as socialization, identity, institutional maintenance, and field-level change. Whereas recent studies bring new insights, management scholars' conceptualization of tradition suffers from a lack of theoretical integration. In this article, we identify the major perspectives on tradition used in the literature and propose an integrative "custodianship framework" that encourages researchers to examine stability and change in organizational traditions by considering the perspectives, interests, and power of custodians surrounding a tradition over time. We suggest that future research explicitly consider the importance of place as both the rootedness and emplacement of traditions motivate the need for custodianship.

6. Toward a Better Understanding of Tacit Knowledge in Organizations: Taking Stock and Moving Forward

迈向对组织中隐性知识的更好理解：现状评估与未来展望

Authors / 作者: Demetris Hadjimichael, Haridimos Tsoukas

Year / 时间: 2019 · Vol. 13, Issue 2 · pp. 672-703

DOI: 10.5465/annals.2017.0084

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Tacit knowledge is the knowledge that we draw on in use, but is difficult to have consciousness of, or to express in language. The proliferation in the use of tacit knowledge in management research has generated a diversity of understandings that has reduced the clarity of the concept. In this review, our main goal was to contribute to an integrative theorizing of tacit knowledge. In particular, we aim to grasp the different understandings of tacit knowledge, trace them to the onto-epistemological assumptions researchers make concerning the nature of knowledge and action, and suggest a framework that enables researchers to get a coherent understanding of the diverse literature. We identify three perspectives on tacit knowledge: the conversion, interactional, and practice perspectives. We describe each perspective, trace its development to particular ontological and epistemological commitments, and discuss commonalities and differences. Furthermore, we reflect on methodological issues and suggest possibilities for further research, including the relationship between artificial intelligence and tacit knowledge.

摘要 (中文):

隐性知识是我们应用中提取但难以意识到或用语言表达的知识。管理研究中隐性知识使用的激增产生了理解上的多样性,从而降低了该概念的清晰度。在本次综述中,我们的主要目标是为隐性知识的综合理论化做出贡献。特别是,我们旨在把握对隐性知识的不同理解,将其追溯到研究人员关于知识和行动本质的本体论-认识论假设,并建议一个使研究人员能够对各种文献获得连贯理解的框架。我们确定了关于隐性知识的三种视角:转化视角、互动视角和实践视角。我们描述了每种视角,将其发展追溯到特定的本体论和认识论承诺,并讨论了共同点和差异。此外,我们反思了方法论问题,并提出了进一步研究的可能性,包括人工智能与隐性知识之间的关系。

7. Brokerage and Brokering: An Integrative Review and Organizing Framework for Third Party Influence

经纪与经纪行为: 第三方影响的综合综述与组织框架

Authors / 作者: Nir Halevy, Eliran Halali, Julian J. Zlatev

Year / 时间: 2019 · Vol. 13, Issue 1 · pp. 215-239

DOI: 10.5465/annals.2017.0024

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Brokerage and brokering are pervasive and consequential organizational phenomena. Prevailing models underscore social structure and focus on the consequences that come from brokerage—occupying a bridging position between disconnected others in a network. By contrast, emerging models underscore social interactions and focus on brokering—the behavioral processes through which organizational actors shape others’ relationships. Our review led us to develop a novel framework as a means to integrate and organize a wide range of theoretical insights and empirical findings on brokerage and brokering. The Changing Others’ Relationships (COR) framework captures the following ideas that emerged from our review: (a) Different triadic configurations enable different forms of brokering, which in turn produce distinct effects on others’ relationships, (b) brokering is a multifaceted social influence process that can take the form of intermediation (connecting disconnected others) or modification (changing others’ preexisting relationships), (c) comparing social relations prebrokering versus postbrokering reveals a broker’s impact, (d) brokering can influence others’ relationships positively or negatively, and (e) information and incentives are two principal means through which individuals change others’ relationships. Overall, the current review integrates multiple streams of research relevant to brokerage and brokering—including those on structural holes, organizational innovation, boundary spanning, social and political skill, workplace gossip, third-party conflict managers, and labor relations—and links each of the emergent themes identified in the current review to promising directions for future research on brokerage and brokering.

摘要 (中文):

经纪 (Brokerage) 与经纪行为 (Brokering) 是普遍且具有重要影响的组织现象。流行模型强调社会结构,并关注经纪带来的后果——即在网络中处于互不相连的他人之间的桥接位置。相比之下,新兴模型强调社会互动,并关注经纪行为——即组织行动者塑造他人关系的行为过程。通过综述,我们开发了一个新颖的框架,作为整合和组织关于经纪与经纪行为的广泛理论见解和实证结果的手段。“改变他人关系”(COR) 框架捕捉了我们综述中出现的以下观点: (a) 不同的三元结构支持不同形式的经纪行为,进而对他人关系产生截然不同的影响; (b) 经纪行为是一个多维的社会影响过程,可以表现为居间调解(连接互不相连的他人)或修正(改变他人预先存在的关系); (c) 通过比较经纪行为前后的社会关系可以揭示经纪人的影响; (d) 经纪行为可以对他人关系产生积极或消极的影响; (e) 信息和激励是个人改变他人关系的两种主要手段。总体而言,本综述整合了与经纪和经纪行为相关的多个研究流派——包括关于结构洞、组织创新、边界跨越、社会与政治技能、职场八卦、第三方冲突管理者以及劳资关系的研究——并将本综述中确定的每个新兴主题与经纪和经纪行为

未来研究的有前景方向联系起来。

8. Topic Modeling in Management Research: Rendering New Theory from Textual Data

管理研究中的主题建模：从文本数据中提炼新理论

Authors / 作者: Timothy R. Hannigan, Richard F. J. Haans, Keyvan Vakili, Hovig Tchalian, Vern L. Glaser, Milo Shaoqing Wang, Sarah Kaplan, P. Devereaux Jennings

Year / 时间: 2019 · Vol. 13, Issue 2 · pp. 586-632

DOI: 10.5465/annals.2017.0099

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Increasingly, management researchers are using topic modeling, a new method borrowed from computer science, to reveal phenomenon-based constructs and grounded conceptual relationships in textual data. By conceptualizing topic modeling as the process of rendering constructs and conceptual relationships from textual data, we demonstrate how this new method can advance management scholarship without turning topic modeling into a black box of complex computer-driven algorithms. We begin by comparing features of topic modeling to related techniques (content analysis, grounded theorizing, and natural language processing). We then walk through the steps of rendering with topic modeling and apply rendering to management articles that draw on topic modeling. Doing so enables us to identify and discuss how topic modeling has advanced management theory in five areas: detecting novelty and emergence, developing inductive classification systems, understanding online audiences and products, analyzing frames and social movements, and understanding cultural dynamics. We conclude with a review of new topic modeling trends and revisit the role of researcher interpretation in a world of computer-driven textual analysis.

摘要 (中文):

管理研究人员越来越多地使用主题建模——一种借鉴自计算机科学的新方法——来揭示文本数据中基于现象的构念和扎根的概念关系。通过将主题建模概念化为从文本数据中提炼构念和概念关系的过程，我们展示了这种新方法如何在不将主题建模变成复杂的计算机驱动算法黑箱的情况下，推进管理学研究。我们首先将主题建模的特征与相关技术（内容分析、扎根理论化和自然语言处理）进行比较。然后，我们逐步讲解使用主题建模进行提炼的步骤，并将提炼应用于采用主题建模的管理学文章。这样做使我们能够识别并讨论主题建模如何在五个领域推进管理理论：检测新颖性和涌现、开发归纳分类系统、理解在线受众和产品、分析框架和社会运动，以及理解文化动态。我们总结并回顾了新的主题建模趋势，并在计算机驱动的文本分析世界中重新审视了研究者解释的作用。

9. The Corrective Actions Organizations Pursue Following Misconduct: A Review and Research Agenda

组织在不当行为后采取的纠正措施：综述与研究议程

Authors / 作者: Matt C. Hersel, Catherine A. Helmuth, Michelle L. Zorn, Christine Shropshire, Jason W. Ridge

Year / 时间: 2019 · Vol. 13, Issue 2 · pp. 547-585

DOI: 10.5465/annals.2017.0090

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Organizational misconduct has substantial effects on the well-being of a firm and its stakeholders. As this body of work has grown, organizational scholars have devoted considerable research attention toward understanding how firms can minimize the negative effects of misconduct through various corrective actions. Consequently, discrete research streams have formed around specific types of organizational misconduct and corrective actions, which has left the literature without a unifying theoretical model. We provide a conceptual synthesis and typology that aggregates disconnected concepts into the higher order constructs of organizational misconduct (fraud, product safety issues, employee mistreatment, and environmental violations) and corrective actions (executive dismissal, product recalls, organizational accounts, and policy changes). Using the theoretical tenets of stakeholder salience and managerial cognition, we offer insight and future research directions about managers' decision-making processes following misconduct and why firms respond using accommodative versus defensive strategies.

摘要 (中文):

组织不当行为对企业及其利益相关者的福祉具有重大影响。随着这一研究领域的不断扩大, 组织学者投入了大量的研究精力, 旨在理解企业如何通过各种纠正措施将不当行为的负面影响降至最低。因此, 围绕特定类型的组织不当行为和纠正措施形成了离散的研究流派, 这使得文献缺乏统一的理论模型。我们提供了一个概念综合和分类法, 将互不关联的概念聚合成组织不当行为(欺诈、产品安全问题、员工虐待和环境违规)和纠正措施(高管解雇、产品召回、组织说明和政策变更)的高阶构念。利用利益相关者显著性和管理认知的理论原则, 我们对不当行为后管理者的决策过程, 以及企业为何采用顺应性策略而非防御性策略提供了见解和未来研究方向。

10. Keep Your Head in the Clouds and Your Feet on the Ground: A Multifocal Review of Leadership-Followership Self-Regulatory Focus

脚踏实地, 仰望星空: 领导力-追随力自我调节焦点的多焦点综述

Authors / 作者: Ronit Kark, Dina Van Dijk

Year / 时间: 2019 · Vol. 13, Issue 2 · pp. 509-546

DOI: 10.5465/annals.2017.0134

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Self-regulatory focus reflects both a trait (chronic focus) and a state (situational focus) that can either influence or be influenced by various organizational factors and outcomes, allowing us to be promotion focused, "keeping our head in the clouds" and/or prevention focused by "keeping our feet on the ground." Self-regulatory focus is a significant explanatory construct because it comprises an inner-self component (ideal versus ought), which is evident as a motivational force that mobilizes different individual and work-group processes and behaviors to achieve end results. These unique characteristics of regulatory focus make it especially appropriate for understanding the psychological mechanisms that underlie leadership-followership processes involving dynamic relationships and mutual influences across time and context. To date, the relationships between leadership and regulatory focus and the roles of time and context have not been assessed systematically. We review the literature on regulatory focus and leadership, while integrating the multiple targets and levels of regulatory focus (leaders, followers, dyads, and teams). We further offer a comprehensive conceptual framework that focuses on the significance of time and context across these levels, to advance our knowledge and to suggest a roadmap for future research on leader-follower motivational processes and their influence on multiple-level outcomes.

自我调节焦点既反映了一种特质(慢性焦点), 也反映了一种状态(情境焦点), 它可以影响各种组织因素和结果, 也可以受其影响, 使我们能够成为促进定向("仰望星空")和/或通过"脚踏实地"成为防御定向。自我调节焦点是一个重要的解释性构念, 因为它包含一个内在自我成分(理想 vs. 应该), 这表现为一种动力, 动员不同的个人和工作小组过程及行为以实现最终结果。调节焦点的这些独特特征使其特别适理解领导力-追随力过程背后的心理机制, 这些过程涉及跨越时间和背景的动态关系和相互影响。迄今为止, 领导力与调节焦点之间的关系以及时间和背景的作用尚未得到系统评估。我们回顾了关于调节焦点和领导力的文献, 同时整合了调节焦点的多个目标和层面(领导者、追随者、二元体和团队)。我们进一步提供了一个全面的概念框架, 重点关注这些层面上时间和背景的重要性, 以推进我们的知识, 并为未来关于领导者-追随者动机过程及其对多层面结果影响的研究建议路线图。

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

This article reviews scholarship dealing with the notion of “boundary work,” defined as purposeful individual and collective effort to influence the social, symbolic, material, or temporal boundaries, demarcations; and distinctions affecting groups, occupations, and organizations. We identify and explore the implications of three conceptually distinct but interrelated forms of boundary work emerging from the literature. Competitive boundary work involves mobilizing boundaries to establish some kind of advantage over others. In contrast, collaborative boundary work is concerned with aligning boundaries to enable collaboration. Finally, configurational boundary work involves manipulating patterns of differentiation and integration among groups to ensure that certain activities are brought together, whereas others are kept apart, orienting the domains of competition and collaboration. We argue that the notion of boundary work can contribute to the development of a uniquely processual view of organizational design as open-ended, and continually becoming, an orientation with significant future potential for understanding novel forms of organizing, and for integrating agency, power dynamics, materiality, and temporality into the study of organizing.

摘要 (中文):

本文回顾了涉及“边界工作”概念的学术研究，边界工作被定义为旨在影响群体、职业和组织的社会、象征、物质或时间边界、界限和区别的有目的的个人和集体努力。我们识别并探讨了文献中出现的三个在概念上截然不同但又相互关联的边界工作形式的影响。竞争性边界工作涉及动员边界以建立相对于他人的某种优势。相比之下，协作性边界工作关注于对齐边界以实现协作。最后，构型性边界工作涉及操纵群体间的差异化和整合模式，以确保某些活动汇聚在一起，而其他活动保持分离，从而导向竞争和协作领域。我们认为，边界工作的概念有助于发展一种独特的、开放式的、不断生成的组织设计过程观，这种取向对于理解新型组织形式，以及将代理性、权力动态、物质性和时间性整合到组织研究中具有巨大的未来潜力。

12. Authenticity

真实性

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

The concept of authenticity informs a number of central topics in management studies. On the surface, it might seem that a consensus exists about its meaning; there is indeed widespread agreement that authenticity refers to that which is “real” or “genuine” or “true.” Below the surface, however, there is much less agreement; scholars use the same lexical term but often approach the concept from different perspectives and apply different meanings. This review outlines three fundamental but distinct perspectives found in the literature: authenticity as (1) consistency between an entity’s internal values and its external expressions, (2) conformity of an entity to the norms of its social category, and (3) connection between an entity and a person, place, or time as claimed. The aim of this review was to critically appraise the various research themes within each perspective, highlighting similarities, differences, and relationships between them. In doing so, this review represents an initial step toward an integrated framework of authenticity, which provides new insights into our understanding of the existing literature and a useful guide for future research.

摘要 (中文):

真实性概念为管理研究中的许多核心议题提供了信息。从表面上看，关于其含义似乎存在共识；人们确实广泛认同真实性是指“真实的”、“地道的”或“真诚的”事物。然而，在表象之下，共识要少得多；学者们使用相同的词汇术语，但往往从不同的视角切入该概念并应用不同的含义。本综述概述了文献中发现的三种基本但截然不同的视角：真实性表现为 (1) 实体内部价值观与其外部表达之间的一致性，(2) 实体对其社会类别规范的顺应性，以及 (3) 实体与所声称的人、地点或时间之间的关联性。本综述的目的是批判性地评估每个视角下的各种研究主题，强调它们之间的相似性、差异和关系。通过这样做，本综述代表了迈向真实性整合框架的第一步，为我们理解现有文献提供了新的见解，并为未来的研究提供了有用的指南。

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Moral forms of leadership such as ethical, authentic, and servant leadership have seen a surge of interest in the 21st century. The proliferation of morally based leadership approaches has resulted in theoretical confusion and empirical overlap that mirror substantive concerns within the larger leadership domain. Our integrative review of this literature reveals connections with moral philosophy that provide a useful framework to better differentiate the specific moral content (i.e., deontology, virtue ethics, and consequentialism) that undergirds ethical, authentic, and servant leadership, respectively. Taken together, this integrative review clarifies points of integration and differentiation among moral approaches to leadership and delineates avenues for future research that promise to build complementary rather than redundant knowledge regarding how moral approaches to leadership inform the broader leadership domain.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Throughout its storied history, the leadership literature has predominantly treated leader behaviors as static and owing to stable antecedents such as personality traits and organizational norms. In recent years, however, this assumption has been challenged as researchers have acknowledged that leader behaviors are more dynamic than previously thought. To clarify and broaden this literature, we review and synthesize published works focused on dynamic leader behaviors. In so doing, we identify three distinct conceptualizations of time and change in the leader behavior literature: shift (i.e., discontinuous, unidirectional change), growth and decay (i.e., unidirectional evolution over time), and ebb and flow (i.e., fluid, potentially nonlinear). We distill the conceptualization behind each of these approaches and synthesize the conceptual and empirical content of the literature within each approach. In the process, we also highlight several challenges and opportunities for research in this area. Moreover, we propose a new, integrative temporal framework meant to not only provide a richer view of dynamism but also guide future dynamic leader behavior research.

在领导力文献漫长的历史中,领导行为主要被视为静态的,并归因于人格特质和组织规范等稳定的前因。然而,近年来,随着研究人员承认领导行为比以前认为的更具动态性,这一假设受到了挑战。为了澄清和拓宽这一领域的文献,我们回顾并综合了关注动态领导行为的已发表著作。在此过程中,我们识别了领导行为文献中关于时间和变化的三个截然不同的概念化:转变(即不连续的、单向的变化)、增长与衰减(即随时间推移的单向演变)以及起伏(即流动的、潜在非线性的)。我们提炼了每种方法背后的概念化,并综合了每种方法中研究的理论和实证内容。在此过程中,我们还强调了该领域研究的若干挑战和机遇。此外,我们提出了一个新的、整合性的时间框架,旨在不仅提供更丰富的动态视角,而且指导未来的动态领导行为研究。

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

The aging workforce is a widely acknowledged, major organizational phenomenon. Nevertheless, its present level of scholarship is both narrow in focus and inconclusive in implications for key organizational domains: namely, individual-level performance (why does evidence suggest no effect of worker age on overall performance?), interpersonal-level discrimination (why do older workers face heightened discrimination if their performance is generally valued?), and group-level diversity (why has research failed to identify consistent age diversity benefits?). The present review argues that answering these questions necessitates expanding the older worker space by incorporating research approaches of other, well-established literature studies—each of which offer equally valid ways of understanding (older) worker age, but do not typically cast themselves as covering age per se. Although these other literatures—comprising Generation, Age, Tenure, and Experience (GATE)—potentially foster a more sophisticated conception of older workers than present approaches typically offer, these literatures have remained largely separate, resulting in their own level of inconclusive and sometimes contradictory predictions for an aging workforce. To address each of these issues going forward, researchers must integrate GATE elements in all older worker investigations. A GATE approach avoids overreliance on chronological age as a predictor, more accurately represents the inherent complexity of age as a status category, and potentially offers more definitive conclusions than present approaches do. Such is timely, and crucial, for a topic that is somehow both ubiquitous in the workforce and yet not well understood by mainstream organizational scholarship.

摘要 (中文):

劳动力老龄化是一个被广泛认可的重大组织现象。然而,目前的研究水平不仅关注点狭窄,而且对关键组织领域的启示也不确定:即个体层面的绩效(为什么证据表明员工年龄对整体绩效没有影响?)、人际层面的歧视(如果年长员工的绩效通常受到重视,为什么他们面临更严重的歧视?)以及群体层面的多样性(为什么研究未能识别出一致的年龄多样性益处?)。本综述认为,回答这些问题需要通过整合其他成熟文献研究的研究方法来扩展年长员工的研究空间——这些文献中的每一种都提供了理解(年长)员工年龄的同样有效的方法,但通常并不认为自己涵盖了年龄本身。尽管这些其他文献——包括世代(Generation)、年龄(Age)、任期(Tenure)和经验(Experience)(简称 GATE)——可能比目前的方法通常提供的更复杂的年长员工概念,但这些文献在很大程度上保持独立,导致它们对老龄化劳动力的预测具有自身的不确定性,有时甚至是矛盾的。为了在未来解决这些问题,研究人员必须在所有年长员工调查中整合 GATE 元素。GATE 方法避免了过度依赖生理年龄作为预测指标,更准确地代表了年龄作为地位类别的内在复杂性,并且可能比目前的方法提供更明确的结论。对于一个在劳动力中无处不在,但尚未被主流组织学术界充分理解的话题来说,这既是及时的,也是至关重要的。

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

The notions of leadership and organizational change have been closely linked and frequently discussed in tandem. Whereas we know much about leadership and change, we know relatively little about the integration of the two. Leadership is often discussed with respect to its impact on organizations in times of change, and the literature on organizational change frequently notes the roles that managers and change agents have, as change leaders. Yet, surprisingly, the impact of leaders on change has not been studied systematically. Through a comprehensive review of the literature on leadership and change we identified significant chasms across disciplines (e.g., strategy/organizational behavior), methodological approaches, and levels of analysis. We offer a conceptual framework to bridge these chasms and highlight the main processes through which leaders shape organizational change and influence its recipients. We identify key leadership functions and corresponding change processes through which leaders effectively implement changes. We also point to several directions for future investigation. In particular, we know very little about the role of leaders' strategic choices in shaping employees' responses to change and about the roles of context and time in moderating the effects of leaders' actions during change.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Socioeconomic mobility, or the ability of individuals to improve their socioeconomic standing through merit-based contributions, is a fundamental ideal of modern societies. The key focus of societal efforts to ensure socioeconomic mobility has been on the provision of educational opportunities. We review evidence that even with the same education and job opportunities, being born into a poorer family undermines socioeconomic mobility because of processes occurring within organizations. The burden of poorer background might, ceteris paribus, be economically comparable to the gender gap. We argue that in the societal and scientific effort to promote socioeconomic mobility, the key context in which mobility is supposed to happen—organizations—and the key part of the life of people striving toward socioeconomic advancement—that as working adults—have been overlooked. We integrate the organizational literature, pointing to key withinorganizational processes impacting objective (socioeconomic) success with research, some emergent in organizational sciences and some disciplinary, on when, why, and how people from poorer backgrounds behave or are treated by others in the relevant situations. Integrating these literatures generates a novel and useful framework for identifying issues people born into poorer families face as employees, systematizes extant evidence and makes it more accessible to organizational scientists, and allows us to lay the agenda for future organizational scholarship. Our hope is that the current review will help bring organizational science—in our view, the best equipped domain of scholarship for studying how workers from different backgrounds fare in organizations—to the forefront of the quest for promoting socioeconomic mobility of workers coming from poorer families.

社会经济流动性，即个人通过基于功绩的贡献来改善其社会经济地位的能力，是现代社会的一个基本理想。社会努力确保社会经济流动性的关键焦点一直是提供教育机会。我们回顾了相关证据，证明即使拥有相同的教育和工作机会，出生在贫困家庭也会因为组织内部发生的过程而损害社会经济流动性。在其他条件相同的情况下，贫困背景带来的负担在经济上可能与性别差距相当。我们认为，在促进社会经济流动性的社会和科学努力中，流动性本应发生的关键背景——组织，以及努力实现社会经济进步的人们生活的关键部分——作为工作的成年人，都被忽视了。我们整合了组织文献，指出了影响客观（社会经济）成功的关键组织内部过程，并结合了组织科学中一些新兴的以及跨学科的研究，探讨了贫困背景的人在相关情境中何时、为何以及如何表现，或者被他人对待。整合这些文献产生了一个新颖且有用的框架，用于识别出生于贫困家庭的人作为员工所面临的问题，系统化了现有证据并使其更易于被组织科学家获取，并允许我们为未来的组织学术研究制定议程。我们希望本综述将有助于使组织科学——在我们看来，这是研究不同背景员工在组织中表现如何的最完备的学术领域——处于促进贫困家庭员工社会经济流动性探索的前沿。

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

In this review of the literature on reputation, status, celebrity, and stigma we develop an overarching theoretical framework based on the rational, emotional, and moral aspects of each construct's unique sociocognitive content and the mechanisms through which it affects audience evaluations. We use this framework to assess the construct definitions and empirical measures used in existing research and offer our assessments of how well they reflect each construct's sociocognitive content, distinguish the constructs from other constructs, and distinguish the constructs from their antecedents and consequences. We then articulate the implications of our framework and analyses for future research.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Virtual work is the new normal, with employees working from dispersed locations and interacting using computer-mediated communication. Despite the growth in virtual work research, it has tended to occur in siloes focused on different types of virtual work (e.g., virtual teams and telecommuting) that are grounded in different research traditions. This limits opportunities to leverage research across these different domains. We use a co-citation analysis to examine the degree of segmentation in the field of virtual work into disparate research clusters. We find the emergence of three major research clusters: telecommuting, virtual teams, and computer-mediated work (CMW). Motivated by this finding, we carry out a comparative review of the literature in each cluster with the objective of seeking ways to exploit opportunities that cut across them. Based on our review, we first develop a conceptual model using the dispersion and technology dependence dimensions of virtuality to compare different approaches to studying virtuality-related issues across clusters. Next, we use our comparative review to propose a systematic approach for developing research questions that bridge research across the clusters by considering how different approaches to studying virtuality and the ensuing problem domains addressed in one cluster might help to advance research in another. To illustrate this approach, we discuss 12 research questions for bridging across the three virtual work clusters. Finally, we discuss the research implications of our conceptual model and bridging approach. Our review and conceptual model along with the proposed bridging approach help to facilitate a forward-looking agenda for accelerating and enriching virtual work research.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Symbols are habitually used by organizations to transform the meaning of their actions and intentions in ways that enable them to manage complex stakeholder relationships and achieve competitive advantage. However, applications of symbolic management across disciplines and research traditions in the organization sciences are fraught with theoretical ambiguity pertaining to the meaning of symbols, the value of symbols to organizations, the tactics used by organizations to manage symbols, and the outcomes of symbolic management. Thus, we review the literature to solidify our theoretical understanding of organizational symbolic management. Based on our review, we advance a process framework of symbolic management to describe the relationships between organizational approaches to managing symbols, the forms of symbolic value organizations seek to create and capture, and the prevailing outcomes of symbolic management. Using this framework, we also examine the literature for insights pertaining to the management of symbols for competitive advantage in separate contexts of organization-stakeholder interaction, leading to the development of a strategic framework of symbolic management. We conclude by outlining a set of directions for future research that evoke pressing questions about the role of symbolic management in organizations to encourage new pastures of scholarly inquiry.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

The allocation of capital within firms is a core managerial function, yet a topic that only recently has resurged in management research. We review research across disciplines dealing with how firms allocate capital, with an emphasis on the relevant research in strategy and management. We integrate relevant research across multiple disciplines and theoretical perspectives to bring forth a theoretically grounded conceptualization of capital allocation within a firm as (i) a process of determination, comparison, and selection among multiple investment alternatives, (ii) taking place across organizational levels of the firm, and (iii) influenced and constrained by the external context in which the firm is situated. We conclude by discussing some important implications for future research.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Using selection and adaptation-based logic, we develop a dynamic matching model to describe how employees are matched with positions to enhance human capital-based value creation. Matching, defined as the process by which individuals are dynamically aligned with organizations and the situations (roles, jobs, tasks, etc.) within them, has historically been examined in silos across a broad range of literatures. Consequently, we know little about how seemingly diverse HR activities, such as recruitment, job design, training, promotions, and terminations, might inform each other through the common lens of matching. Emanating from our review, we integrate relevant literatures to develop a comprehensive matching model (termed the “dynamic matching lifecycle model”). Our model extends prior, more static conceptualizations of matching (like attraction, selection, attrition, or ASA) to include four stages: creation, development, reconfiguration, and termination—based on two broad mechanisms—selection and adaptation. Furthermore, we describe how matching contributes to individual and organizational value creation. By evoking human capital theories, we explain how people and organizations engage in matching across the four stages of the model to create human capital-based value. Our model shows that information and information distribution, organization design, and complementarities play important roles in ensuring successful matching. Promising future research directions are discussed.

摘要 (中文):

利用基于选择和基于适应的逻辑，我们开发了一个动态匹配模型，以描述员工如何与职位匹配以增强基于人力资本的价值创造。匹配被定义为个体与组织及其内部情境（角色、工作、任务等）动态对齐的过程，历来在广泛的文献中被孤立地研究。因此，我们对看似多样的人力资源活动（如招聘、工作设计、培训、晋升和离职）如何通过匹配这一共同视角相互影响知之甚少。基于我们的回顾，我们整合了相关文献，开发了一个全面的匹配模型（称为“动态匹配生命周期模型”）。我们的模型扩展了先前较为静态的匹配概念（如吸引-选择-磨合，即 ASA），基于选择和适应这两个广泛的机制，包含了四个阶段：创建、发展、重新配置和终止。此外，我们描述了匹配如何促进个人和组织的价值创造。通过调用人力资本理论，我们解释了人和组织如何在模型的四个阶段中参与匹配，以创造基于人力资本的价值。我们的模型表明，信息和信息分布、组织设计以及互补性在确保成功匹配中发挥着重要作用。文中还讨论了具有前景的未来研究方向。

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

We present an integrative review and synthesis of the literature on the ways leaders become involved in conflict. Studies have investigated the effect of leaders on some aspect of group conflict but there is no compilation of research that gives us a clear understanding of when, why, and how leaders influence group conflict. An integrative review and synthesis of this work will provide the field with insight into the myriad of ways that leaders regulate, manage, and even promote group conflict, something that is currently missing from the group conflict literature. Specifically, our multidisciplinary review incorporates the role of leaders in instigating, engaging in, and managing group conflict. Crafting our review around the ways that conflict manifests in groups allows us to explore the multitude of ways that leaders impact conflict, such as through intentional/unintentional conflict instigation, engagement in conflict as strategic observers, or conflict management via conflict resolution. The manner in which we organize our review stimulates both theoretical and methodological advancements around leaders' involvement in group conflict and conflict management.

我们对关于领导者参与冲突方式的文献进行了综合性回顾与总结。已有研究调查了领导者对群体冲突某些方面的影响，但目前尚无研究汇编能让我们清晰地理解领导者在何时、为何以及如何影响群体冲突。对这项工作的综合性回顾与总结将为该领域提供洞见，揭示领导者调节、管理甚至促进群体冲突的多种方式，而这正是目前群体冲突文献中所缺失的。具体而言，我们的多学科综述纳入了领导者在煽动、参与和管理群体冲突中的角色。围绕冲突在群体中的表现形式构建综述，使我们能够探索领导者影响冲突的多种方式，例如通过有意/无意的冲突煽动、作为战略观察者参与冲突，或通过冲突解决进行冲突管理。我们组织综述的方式激发了围绕领导者参与群体冲突及冲突管理的理论和方法论进展。

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

We review the literature on evidence-based best practices on how to enhance methodological transparency, which is the degree of detail and disclosure about the specific steps, decisions, and judgment calls made during a scientific study. We conceptualize lack of transparency as a “research performance problem” because it masks fraudulent acts, serious errors, and questionable research practices, and therefore precludes inferential and results reproducibility. Our recommendations for authors provide guidance on how to increase transparency at each stage of the research process: (1) theory, (2) design, (3) measurement, (4) analysis, and (5) reporting of results. We also offer recommendations for journal editors, reviewers, and publishers on how to motivate authors to be more transparent. We group these recommendations into the following categories: (1) manuscript submission forms requiring authors to certify they have taken actions to enhance transparency, (2) manuscript evaluation forms including additional items to encourage reviewers to assess the degree of transparency, and (3) review process improvements to enhance transparency. Taken together, our recommendations provide a resource for doctoral education and training; researchers conducting empirical studies; journal editors and reviewers evaluating submissions; and journals, publishers, and professional organizations interested in enhancing the credibility and trustworthiness of research.

我们回顾了关于如何增强方法论透明度的循证最佳实践文献，方法论透明度是指科学研究过程中具体步骤、决策和判断调用的详细程度和披露程度。我们将缺乏透明度概念化为一个“研究表现问题”，因为它掩盖了欺诈行为、严重错误和可疑的研究实践，因此阻碍了推断和结果的可复制性。我们为作者提供的建议就如何在研究过程的每个阶段增加透明度提供了指导：(1) 理论、(2) 设计、(3) 测量、(4) 分析和(5) 结果报告。我们还为期刊编辑、审稿人和出版商提供了关于如何激励作者提高透明度的建议。我们将这些建议分为以下几类：(1) 要求作者证明其已采取行动增强透明度的投稿表格；(2) 包含额外项目以鼓励审稿人评估透明度程度的手稿评估表；以及(3) 增强透明度的审稿流程改进。总的来说，我们的建议为博士教育和培训、进行实证研究的研究人员、评估投稿的期刊编辑和审稿人，以及有兴趣增强研究公信力和可信度的期刊、出版商和专业组织提供了资源。

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

This article seeks to reinvigorate research on firm age by providing the first comprehensive review of the construct. We provide evidence that certain long-held assumptions about age have changed as organizations have become increasingly temporary and discuss what this means for organizational research going forward. We inductively structured our review along five themes: [1] research on age-dependence in organizational mortality rates; [2] research on age-related differences in firm processes or structures; [3] research enriching the theoretical understanding of firm age; [4] research that includes firm age as a control variable; and [5] methodological issues in the study of firm age. Across these five themes, we identify important work, integrate what we know, identify gaps and inconsistencies, and offer recommendations for future research. We derive more specific recommendations for two streams of research in particular, namely, research on entrepreneurial success and failure, which is directly tied to the liability of newness, and the literature on temporary organizations, which is concerned with the intended and actual durations of firms.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Over the past three decades, scholars have increasingly come to view knowledge as one of the most important resources necessary for successful organization in the contemporary socioeconomic landscape. In our vigor to understand how organizations may harness the diverse knowledge available to them, however, we have produced a disparity in our theories of knowledge management (KM) processes. By reviewing 20 years of influential KM literature, we uncover a bias toward explaining knowledge integration over research exploring processes of knowledge differentiation. Through our review, we explain why such a pattern has emerged and build an argument for why understanding differentiation is an increasingly important charge for management and organizational scholars. We then advance three strategic directions for future KM scholarship, based on the notion that recognizing multiple knowledge trajectories can aid in addressing several significant lines of theorizing in management and organization studies.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Although organizations and individuals tend to focus on learning from success, research has shown that failure can yield crucial insights in various contexts that range from small mistakes and errors, product recalls, accidents, and medical errors to large-scale disasters. This review of the literature identifies three mechanisms—opportunity, motivation, and ability—through which individuals, groups, and organizations learn from failure, and it bridges the gaps between different levels of analysis. Opportunity to learn from failure mostly takes the shape of more information about errors and failures that are generated by one's own and others' prior failures or near-failures. Motivation to learn from failure is hindered by punitive leaders and organizations. Finally, the ability to learn from failure partly relies on inherent attitudes and characteristics, but can be further developed through thoughtful analysis and transfers of successful routines. Our review leads us to distinguish between erroneous versus correct processes and adverse versus successful outcomes to better understand the full gamut of events that are faced by organizations. We identify the existence of noisy learning environment, where spurious successes (when erroneous processes still lead to successful outcomes) and spurious failures (when correct processes are combined with adverse outcomes) lower the opportunity to learn. Considering noisy learning situations is helpful when understanding the differences between slow and fast-learning environments. We conclude our review by identifying a number of unexplored areas we hope scholars will address to better our understanding of failure learning.

摘要 (中文):

尽管组织和个人倾向于关注从成功中学习，但研究表明，在从小错误、产品召回、事故、医疗错误到大规模灾难的各种情境中，失败都能产生至关重要的见解。这篇文献综述识别了个人、群体和组织从失败中学习的三个机制——机会、动机和能力，并弥合了不同分析层面之间的差距。从失败中学习的机会主要表现为关于由自己和他人的失败或近乎失败所产生的错误和失败的更多信息。从失败中学习的动机受到惩罚性领导和组织的阻碍。最后，从失败中学习的能力部分依赖于固有的态度和特征，但可以通过周密的分析和成功惯例的转移得到进一步发展。我们的综述引导我们区分错误过程与正确过程，以及不利结果与成功结果，以更好地理解组织所面临的所有事件。我们识别了噪声学习环境的存在，在这种环境中，虚假成功（当错误的过程仍导致成功的结果时）和虚假失败（当正确的过程与不利的结果相结合时）降低了学习机会。在理解慢速学习与快速学习环境之间的差异时，考虑噪声学习情境是有帮助的。我们通过识别一些尚未探索的领域来结束我们的综述，我们希望学者们能解决这些问题，以增进我们对失败学习的理解。

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

This review assembles two highly referenced streams of research in organization and management studies over the past decade: institutional logics and categories. We present the gist of each literature focusing on the interaction within and between organizations vis-à-vis the institutional logics and category systems that condition behavior. Then, we suggest that both streams have compatible assumptions that warrant further integration and suggest opportunities for future research stemming from (1) complementarities related to interand intra-audience variance, formation and recombination of logics and categories, and actors' identity and (2) differences related to theory level of analysis, incorporation of conflict, and methods of analysis. Integration can lead to better specified mechanisms, processes, and contexts important to improving accuracy and development of these research streams.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Schumpeter famously popularized “creative destruction” as the process whereby new entrants replaced existing firms. In most cases, however, some incumbent firms survive and even thrive across technological discontinuities. Moving beyond incumbent-entrant dynamics, organizations and innovation research has begun to explore incumbent heterogeneity in response to technological change—why some incumbents do well and adapt, whereas others struggle. As a phenomenon-driven research area, scholars with different theoretical perspectives have brought their own lenses to bear, but these perspectives have evolved independently. The result is a research stream with a scattered collection of detailed, within-industry perspectives on the phenomenon without a clear ability to link different mechanisms or articulate boundary conditions. This article brings these relevant literatures together to paint a more holistic picture of incumbent adaptation to technological change. To improve generalizability and begin building a more general, cross-industry theory, we emphasize recognizing specific nuances of different technological changes and how they fit with the existing capabilities, knowledge, position, and cognition of incumbent firms to understand which incumbents are swept away in the wave of creative destruction and which may survive.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Organization scholarship has seen an escalation of interest in research into extremes. Comprising several interconnected domains, this growing body of research is decidedly fragmented. This fragmentation risks limiting its potential for advancing management and organization studies. Drawing on 138 articles published in top-tier journals between 1980 and 2015, the purpose of this review is to resolve some of this fragmentation by sharpening definitions and by developing a context-specific typology to help differentiate between contributions from research into risky contexts, emergency contexts, and disrupted contexts. Doing so allows us to let the various literatures speak to each other and to outline ways to enhance the cumulative potential of extreme context research.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Organizational scholars have systematically studied the negotiation process to guide the development of general descriptive and prescriptive theory. Descriptive research conducted by scholars from anthropology, law, and international relations converge on the features required for a general theory. This includes a multiphase process comprising planning, bargaining, and implementation, as well as multiparty process between actors organized within a multilevel structure. We examine to what extent negotiation scholars in management have incorporated such complexities into their empirical work. In a survey of empirical studies, we observe concentrated efforts to model and measure dyadic interactions in just one phase—bargaining—and the near exclusive use of experimental methods. By contrast, we survey prescriptive theory generated by specialized experts from various negotiation contexts and find that they place greater focus on the preparation and implementation phases. From this review, we recommend that scholars (a) theorize and measure negotiation as a multiphase process with possibilities for recursion, (b) incorporate a multiparty and multilevel structure in which actors beyond negotiating parties can influence the process, and (c) consider agreements as action commitments separate from actually realizing outcomes. In doing so, we discuss the value of integrating analogous work to furnish negotiation theory. We also provide recommendations for novel empirical approaches that move beyond experimental designs of multi-issue bargaining.

摘要 (中文):

组织学者系统地研究了谈判过程，以指导通用描述性和规范性理论的发展。由人类学、法学和国际关系学者进行的描述性研究汇聚成了通用理论所需的特征。这包括一个由计划、讨价还价和执行组成的多阶段过程，以及在多层级结构中组织的行动者之间的多方过程。我们考察了管理学领域的谈判学者在多大程度上将这些复杂性纳入了他们的实证工作中。在对实证研究的调查中，我们观察到研究力量集中在仅对一个阶段（讨价还价）中的二元互动进行建模和测量，并且几乎排他性地使用实验方法。相比之下，我们调查了由来自各种谈判背景的专业专家生成的规范性理论，发现他们更加关注准备和执行阶段。基于这一综述，我们建议学者们：(a) 将谈判理论化并测量为一个具有递归可能性的多阶段过程；(b) 纳入多方和多层级结构，使谈判方之外的行动者也能影响过程；(c) 将协议视为独立于实际实现结果的行动承诺。在此过程中，我们讨论了整合类似工作以完善谈判理论的价值。我们还为超越多议题谈判实验设计的创新实证方法提供了建议。

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

We define work–life flexibility as employment-scheduling practices that are designed to give employees greater control over when, where, how much, or how continuously work is done. Research has underexamined how work–life flexibility is stratified across occupations. We review how occupational status and flexibility experiences vary and shape work–life inequality, which we identify as a form of job inequality. We investigate the range of definitions, measurement approaches, and theorizing regarding work–life flexibility. We find that employees across occupational groups experience different work–life flexibility outcomes from different flexibility types. Providing employee control over scheduling variation (flextime) may benefit lower level workers the most, yet many are unable to access this flexibility form. Part-time work permitting control over work volume/workload hurts lower level employees the most (because of involuntary income and benefits loss). Yet, these same part-time practices enhance recruitment and retention for upper level jobs but harm promotion and pay. Work continuity control (leaves) benefits upper and middle-level employees but is largely unavailable to lower level workers. Flexibility to control work location is rarely available for lower level jobs; but benefits middle and upper level employees, provided that individuals are able to control separation from work when desired and self-regulate complexity. We offer implications for research and practice.

我们将工作-生活灵活性定义为旨在让员工对何时、何地、如何进行工作或工作持续多久拥有更大控制权的雇佣调度实践。研究尚未充分探讨工作-生活灵活性在不同职业间的阶层化分布。我们回顾了职业地位和灵活性体验如何变化并塑造工作-生活不平等，我们将其识别为工作不平等的一种形式。我们调查了关于工作-生活灵活性的定义范围、测量方法和理论化。我们发现，不同职业群体的员工从不同类型的灵活性中获得了不同的工作-生活灵活性结果。为员工提供对调度变化的控制（弹性工作制）可能对低层员工获益最大，但许多人无法获得这种灵活性形式。允许控制工作量/工作负荷的兼职工作对低层员工的伤害最大（因为非自愿的收入和福利损失）。然而，这些相同的兼职实践增强了高层职位的招聘和留任，但损害了晋升和薪酬。工作连续性控制（休假）使高层和中层员工受益，但低层员工基本上无法获得。控制工作地点的灵活性在低层职位中很少见；但只要个人能够在需要时控制与工作的分离并自我调节复杂性，它就能使中层和高层员工受益。我们提出了对研究和实践的启示。

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Organizational fields are a central construct in institutional theory and the notion of shared meaning is integral to the definition of “field.” In this review, we discuss how institutional scholars have examined discourse, rhetoric, and framing as mechanisms through which meanings form, change, and coalesce in institutional fields. We assess the important contributions of this literature, but we also argue that what scholars identify as discourse, rhetoric, and frames are the residues or echoes of prior social interactions. When scholars miss the opportunity to examine interactions as a key mechanism and source of these meanings, a fundamental dynamic of fields becomes obscured and the accounts become, ironically, static. A focus on interactions enables researchers to observe how institutional fields are understood and tethered to local activity, as actors layer their multiple meanings in ways that may result in unexpected outcomes. As a way to incorporate discourse, rhetoric, and frames into a dynamic approach that features social interaction as an important source of meaning, we examine possibilities evident in the growing line of research on “inhabited institutions,” and we chart productive avenues for future research on the dynamics of fields.

组织场域是制度理论的核心概念，而共享意义的概念是“场域”定义中不可或缺的一部分。在这篇综述中，我们讨论了制度学者如何将话语、修辞和框架作为意义在制度场域中形成、改变和凝聚的机制进行考察。我们评估了这一文献的重要贡献，但我们也认为，学者们所识别的话语、修辞和框架是先前社会互动的残余或回响。当学者们错失将互动视为这些意义的关键机制和来源的机会时，场域的一个基本动力就会变得模糊，而这些描述讽刺地变得静态。关注互动使研究人员能够观察到制度场域是如何被理解并与局部活动挂钩的，因为行动者以可能导致意外结果的方式叠加了他们的多重意义。为了将话语、修辞和框架纳入一个以社会互动为重要意义来源的动态方法中，我们考察了在日益增长的“栖居制度”研究路线中显而易见的可能性，并为未来关于场域动力学的研究规划了富有成效的途径。

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Research on the impact of CEO attributes on firm performance is sporadic and fragmented, with various studies addressing select pieces of the puzzle. Through synthesizing and integrating diverse theoretical perspectives on the functioning of firm executives, this article advances a sequential mediation process model to link CEO attributes with firm performance. The model incorporates CEO emotion and cognition, along with top management team (TMT) and organizational processes as multilevel mediating mechanisms linking CEO attributes to firm performance outcomes. In addition, we draw from event system theory to highlight contextual events confronting firms and CEOs that alter the sequential mediation process resulting in stronger/weaker effects of CEOs on firm performance. Our research not only extends the literature by addressing what, how, and when CEO attributes impact firm performance in a more holistic fashion but also identifies meaningful theoretical and methodological opportunities for research advancement.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Our review of control–trust research reveals that although scholars have advanced our understanding of these dynamics in significant ways, many important questions remain to be answered about these issues. This article contributes to debates in this domain by distilling key findings from existing theoretical perspectives in ways that also highlight important conceptual inconsistencies that are limiting scholars’ capacities to develop a consistent, cumulative knowledge base about control–trust dynamics. To help scholars course-correct and address current challenges in the literature, we identify several potential areas of convergence, present a map of the area’ s conceptual landscape, and propose an agenda for future research that provides scholars with suggestions about how to generate more complete and coherent pictures of relationships between control, trust, and performance.

37. A Pluralistic Perspective to Overcome Major Blind Spots in Research on Interorganizational Relationships

克服组织间关系研究中主要盲点的多元化视角

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Interorganizational relationships have attracted much scholarly attention in the last two decades. Despite the significant advances made in this field, the literature still largely relies on assumptions that overlook core features of interorganizational relationships. We build on the organizational research on pluralism to evaluate and identify opportunities to extend the literature on interorganizational relationships. Drawing on a synthesis of the last 20 years of research (1996–2016) on interorganizational relationships, we discuss four major “blind spots” concerning (1) the assumption of symmetry between parties or the focal party’ s perception is taken to reflect the whole relationship (single-party focus), (2) the assumption of uniform relationships between parties (single-valence focus), (3) the assumption of an interorganizational phenomenon within one level of analysis (single-level focus), and (4) the assumption of universal time (focus on a single conceptualization of time). Through an analysis of exemplary studies, we discuss how and when overcoming each of these blind spots provides novel insights to revisit theoretical mechanisms concerning the functioning of interorganizational relationships. We also identify a coherent set of strategies to address each blind spot. We advance the literature by articulating a pluralistic perspective to guide future research into core questions about interorganizational relationships.

在过去的二十年里，组织间关系吸引了学术界的广泛关注。尽管该领域取得了重大进展，但文献在很大程度上仍依赖于忽视组织间关系核心特征的假设。我们基于关于多元主义的组织研究，评估并识别了扩展组织间关系文献的机会。通过对过去 20 年（1996–2016 年）组织间关系研究的综合，我们讨论了四个主要的“盲点”，涉及：（1）各方之间对称性的假设，或焦点方的感知被用来反映整个关系（单方焦点）；（2）各方之间关系统一的假设（单价焦点）；（3）单一分析层面内的组织间现象假设（单层面焦点）；以及（4）普遍时间的假设（聚焦于时间的单一概念化）。通过对典型研究的分析，我们讨论了克服这些盲点中的每一个如何以及何时能提供新的见解，以重新审视关于组织间关系运作的理论机制。我们还确定了一套连贯的策略来应对每个盲点。我们通过阐述一个多元化视角来推进文献，以指导未来对组织间关系核心问题的研究。

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

A significant amount of research has been conducted on diversity “best practices” to understand whether they help reduce discrimination, increase managerial diversity, and enhance performance. Regardless, which diversity practices should be used, how they should be implemented, for what purpose, and to what effect remains unclear because of issues related to inconsistencies across outcomes studied within and between diversity practices as well as a lack of integration of micro research and macro research. In this review, we focus on these issues to make sense of the array of research conducted since the turn of the century. We first synthesize key research findings from sociological, firm-level research on diversity management practices with research conducted within the psychological tradition using experimental and within-organizational research designs. The results of our review provide the basis for a multilevel process model through which research findings can more easily be interpreted to uncover when and how diversity practices produce desirable results. We discuss how considering the interplay across levels of analysis is critical for enriching our theoretical understanding of the mediating and moderating mechanisms that link the distal constructs of diversity practices and organizational outcomes. We conclude with implications for future research that emerged from an analysis of the literature through our multilevel process model.

针对多样性“最佳实践”是否有助于减少歧视、增加管理层多样性以及提升绩效，研究者已开展了大量研究。尽管如此，由于在多样性实践内部及实践之间所研究的结果存在不一致性，且微观研究与宏观研究缺乏整合，哪些多样性实践应当被采用、应如何实施、出于何种目的以及产生何种效果，目前仍不明确。在本综述中，我们聚焦于这些问题，以理顺自世纪之交以来开展的一系列研究。我们首先综合了社会学领域关于多样性管理实践的企业级研究，以及心理学传统下采用实验和组织内研究设计的相关研究。我们的综述结果为建立一个多层次过程模型提供了基础，通过该模型可以更容易地解释研究结果，从而揭示多样性实践在何时以及如何产生理想的结果。我们讨论了考虑跨分析层级的相互作用对于丰富我们对连接多样性实践这一远端概念与组织结果的中介和调节机制的理论理解至关重要。最后，我们总结了通过多层次过程模型对文献进行分析后得出的对未来研究的启示。

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Although continuing to capture the attention of scholars, the study of “work–family backlash” remains plagued by a lack of conceptual clarity. As a result, there is growing evidence to suggest that there is a dark side to work–life balance (WLB) policies, but these findings remain scattered and unorganized. We provide a synthesis of this literature, defining work–family backlash as a phenomenon characterized by negative attitudes, negative emotions, and negative behaviors—either individual or collective—associated with WLB policies [i.e., on-site provisions, leave policies, and flexible work arrangements (FWAs)] within organizations. We conceptualize and define four primary mechanisms involving multiple levels of analysis through which the phenomenon operates. More micro levels of analysis within organizations are characterized by (1) an inequity mechanism, (2) a stigma mechanism, and (3) a spillover mechanism. Although less developed in the literature to date, more macro levels of analysis—including the organization and societal levels—are characterized by (4) a strategic mechanism. We explain these four primary mechanisms—including the theories and literatures on which they are grounded—and develop an original conceptual model to catalyze future research.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Problemistic search theory, with its roots in the Carnegie School tradition, describes a behaviorally plausible process by which firms learn from performance feedback. A firm’s recognition of performance below aspirations leads to search for a solution to the problem, resulting in change intended to restore performance to the aspired level. The concept of problemistic search has diffused broadly in the management literature—it is a central theoretical concept in a broad variety of organizational theories and an important explanation of a wide variety of organizational behaviors and outcomes. We review the literature and argue that the development of the theory has not kept pace with the breadth of the unfolding literature. We identify six critical issues with extant research that can be traced back to a continued (over)reliance on the initial conceptualization of problemistic search. To address these issues and to revitalize research, we propose a research agenda premised on a more central role for cognition in the theory and the need for greater emphasis on a process perspective of problemistic search.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

The rise of social media is changing how evaluative judgments about organizations are produced and disseminated in the public domain. In this article we discuss how these changes question traditional assumptions that research on media reputation rests upon, and we offer an alternative framework that begins to account for how the more active role of audiences, the changing ways in which they express their evaluations, and the increasing heterogeneity and dynamism that characterize media reputation influence the formation of organizational reputations.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Collective action is at the heart of successful organizations. Successful collective actions can be elusive, however, given that organizational actors can see some collective actions as social dilemmas, where actors have incentive to not contribute; but if all adopt this strategy, the collective action fails. Unfortunately, much of the research on traditional social dilemmas is limited because of the lack of contextual factors likely to be critical in organizational settings. We articulate a portfolio approach to the study of social dilemmas in organizations, arguing that to understand dilemma behavior is to understand each actor's portfolio of collective actions, goals to pursue, resources to allocate, and partners with whom to collaborate. We provide social dilemma illustrations at the individual, team, unit, and firm levels, and discuss how such phenomena could be studied within the portfolio approach. The intent is that the organizational researcher, in addition to the social dilemma researcher, will see social dilemmas as a way to understand how and why actors allocate scarce personal and organizational resources to collective actions when incentives suggest otherwise, and as a consequence, why some organizational collective actions succeed whereas others fail.

集体行动是组织成功的核心。然而，成功的集体行动可能难以捉摸，因为组织参与者可能将某些集体行动视为社会困境，即参与者有动机不做出贡献；但如果所有人都采取这种策略，集体行动就会失败。不幸的是，由于缺乏在组织背景下可能至关重要的情境因素，许多关于传统社会困境的研究受到了限制。我们阐述了一种研究组织中社会困境的组合方法，认为理解困境行为就是理解每个参与者的集体行动组合、追求的目标、分配的资源以及协作的伙伴。我们提供了个人、团队、部门和公司层面的社会困境说明，并讨论了如何在组合方法中研究这些现象。其目的是让组织研究者以及社会困境研究者将社会困境视为一种方式，用以理解当激励机制暗示相反情况时，参与者如何以及为何将稀缺的个人和组织资源分配给集体行动，并因此理解为什么一些组织集体行动取得了成功，而另一些则失败了。

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Although the dynamic capabilities perspective has become one of the most frequently used theoretical lenses in management research, critics have repeatedly voiced their frustration with this literature, particularly bemoaning the lack of empirical knowledge and the underspecification of the construct of dynamic capabilities. But research on dynamic capabilities has advanced considerably since its early years, in which most contributions to this literature were purely conceptual. A plethora of empirical studies as well as further theoretical elaborations have shed substantial light on a variety of specific, measurable factors connected to dynamic capabilities. Our article starts out by analyzing these studies to develop a meta-framework that specifies antecedents, dimensions, mechanisms, moderators, and outcomes of dynamic capabilities identified in the literature to date. This framework provides a comprehensive and systematic synthesis of the dynamic capabilities perspective that reflects the richness of the research while at the same time unifying it into a cohesive, overarching model. Such an analysis has not yet been undertaken; no comprehensive framework with this level of detail has previously been presented for dynamic capabilities. Our analysis shows where research has made the most progress and where gaps and unresolved tensions remain. Based on this analysis, we propose a forward-looking research agenda that outlines directions for future research.

尽管动态能力视角已成为管理研究中最常用的理论视角之一，但批评者反复表达了对该领域文献的挫败感，特别是对实证知识的匮乏和动态能力概念界定不清的抱怨。然而，动态能力研究自早期以来已取得了长足进步，当时该领域的大多数贡献纯粹是概念性的。大量的实证研究以及进一步的理论阐述，已经对与动态能力相关的各种具体、可衡量的因素提供了实质性的见解。本文首先通过分析这些研究，开发了一个元框架，该框架明确了迄今为止文献中识别出的动态能力的前因、维度、机制、调节变量和结果。该框架对动态能力视角进行了全面且系统的综合，既反映了研究的丰富性，又将其统一为一个具有凝聚力的全局模型。此类分析尚未有人尝试；此前从未针对动态能力提出过具有如此详尽程度的全面框架。我们的分析展示了研究取得进展最大的领域，以及仍然存在的差距和未解决的矛盾。基于这一分析，我们提出了一个前瞻性的研究议程，概述了未来的研究方向。

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Organizations regularly make significant investments to ensure their teams will thrive, through interventions intended to support their effectiveness. Such team development interventions (TDIs) have demonstrated their value from both a practical and empirical view, through enabling teams to minimize errors and maximize expertise and thereby advance organizational gains. Yet, on closer examination, the current state of the TDI literature appears so piecemeal that the robustness of extant scientific evidence is often lost. Accordingly, we seek to provide a more cohesive and dynamic integration of the TDI literature, evolving thinking about TDIs toward a system of interventions that can be optimized. Drawing on the existing theoretical and empirical literatures, we first broadly define TDIs. We then offer an in-depth look at the most common types of TDIs, in terms of summarizing the state of the science surrounding each TDI. Based on this review, we distinguish features that make for an effective TDI. We then advance a more integrative framework that seeks to highlight certain interventions that are best served for addressing certain issues within a team. In conclusion, we promote a call for evolving this robust yet disjointed TDI literature into a more holistic, dynamic, and intentional action science with clear empirical as well as practical guidance and direction.

组织经常通过旨在支持团队效能的干预措施进行重大投资, 以确保其团队能够蓬勃发展。这类团队建设干预措施 (TDIs) 从实践和实证的角度都证明了其价值, 它们使团队能够减少错误并最大化专业知识, 从而推动组织的收益。然而, 仔细观察发现, 目前关于 TDI 的文献显得非常零散, 以至于现有的科学证据往往失去了稳健性。因此, 我们寻求对 TDI 文献进行更具凝聚力和动态性的整合, 将关于 TDI 的思考演变为一个可以优化的干预系统。借鉴现有的理论和实证文献, 我们首先对 TDI 进行了广泛定义。然后, 我们深入探讨了最常见的 TDI 类型, 总结了围绕每种 TDI 的科学现状。基于这一回顾, 我们区分了构成有效 TDI 的特征。随后, 我们提出了一个更具整合性的框架, 旨在强调某些最适合解决团队内部特定问题的干预措施。最后, 我们呼吁将这一稳健但脱节的 TDI 文献演变为一门更具整体性、动态性和意向性的行动科学, 并提供明确的实证和实践指导与方向。

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Organizations, and the groups and individuals within them, sometimes face the thorny dilemma of whether or not to continue failing courses of action. Escalation of commitment describes the tendency to “carry on” with such questionable endeavors, regardless of whether doing so is likely to result in success. Despite the wide variability between and within organizations, early research on escalation of commitment largely ignored the role of context. Since then, an impressive volume of studies on the context of escalation has accumulated, and we present a fresh take on the literature by reviewing and analyzing this work. Using a multilevel framework, we elucidate how escalation is influenced by factors at the group and organizational levels, as well as by factors external to the organization. Ultimately, we aim to provide a more comprehensive and nuanced understanding of escalation to stimulate new avenues of research and offer insights into how decision-makers can respond more effectively to escalation dilemmas.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Although social network analysis has become a staple of research in organizational behavior, organizational theory, and strategic management, integration and utilization of this perspective has been much slower in the area of human resource management. We attempt to nudge the study of human resources management toward “Social Resource Management” —adding the social network perspective to research and practice. We discuss how a social network perspective informs managing employee competencies (recruitment, selection, training, and development), managing employee behaviors and attitudes (performance management, compensation, turnover, and retention), and managing employees for competitive advantage (strategic human resource management and strategic human capital). Our goals are twofold: provide a summary of existing research relevant to human resource management that employs a social network perspective and stimulate future work in social resource management. We provide guidance to ensure that work in this area does not simply apply the label of a social network perspective, but rather meaningfully integrates the two fields.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Contemporary organizations often struggle to create meaningful, sustainable changes. At the same time, relevant organizational research lacks an easily accessible consensus on basic change management processes and principles. One consequence is practitioner reliance on popular change models that more often cite expert opinion as their foundation rather than scientific evidence. This article reviews both key tenets of widely used practitioner-oriented change models and findings from scholarly research on organizational change processes to develop an integrative summary of the available evidence of what is known, contested, untested, and underused in change management. It identifies ten evidence-based steps in managing planned organizational change along with implications for research and practice.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

This article focuses on an emergent debate in organizational behavior concerning personality stability and change. We introduce foundational psychological research concerning whether individual personality, in terms of traits, needs, and personal constructs, is fixed or changeable. Based on this background, we review recent research evidence on the antecedents and outcomes associated with personality change. We build on this review of personality change to introduce new directions for personality research in organizational behavior. Specifically, we discuss how a view of personality as changeable contributes to key topics for organizational behavior research and how this new approach can help broaden and deepen the scope of personality theory and measurement. The study of personality change offers a range of new ideas and research opportunities for the study of organizational behavior.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Whether new business ventures emerge in the context of start-ups or corporate giants, one of the enduring and fundamental assumptions underlying theories of entrepreneurial action is that entrepreneurs operate in uncertain environments. And yet, nearly a century since the unveiling of Knightian uncertainty as a precursor to profit-making, the identification, description, and operationalization of uncertainty as a construct continue to exhibit conflicting definitions, tautological measures, and unwitting conflation with more precise constructs along the spectrum of ignorance and unknowingness. The purpose of this study is to review the multiple research streams that together constitute the literature on knowledge problems to identify critical boundary conditions of uncertainty as an analytical construct. Based on this review, we then set forth a multilevel research agenda for exploring entrepreneurial action under conditions of ambiguity, complexity, equivocality, and uncertainty.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

We review the literature on the diversification–performance (D–P) relationship to (a) propose that the time is ripe for a renewed attack on understanding the relationship between diversification and firm performance, and (b) outline a new approach to attacking the question. Our article makes four main contributions. First, through a review of the literature, we establish the inherent complexities in the D–P relationship and the methodological challenges confronted by the literature in reaching its current conclusion of a nonlinear relationship between diversification and performance. Second, we argue that to better guide managers the literature needs to develop along a complementary path—although past research has often focused on answering the big question of does diversification affect firm performance, this second path would focus more on identifying the precise micromechanisms through which diversification adds or subtracts value. Third, we outline a new approach to the investigation of this topic, based on identifying (a) the precise underlying mechanisms through which diversification affects performance, (b) the performance outcomes that are “proximate” to the mechanism that the researcher is studying, and (c) an appropriate research design that can enable a causal claim. Finally, we outline a set of directions for future research.

我们回顾了关于多元化与绩效 (D–P) 关系的文献, 旨在: (a) 提出现在是重新致力于理解多元化与企业绩效之间关系的成熟时机, 以及 (b) 概述一种解决该问题的新方法。我们的文章做出了四个主要贡献。首先, 通过文献回顾, 我们确定了 D–P 关系中固有的复杂性, 以及文献在得出多元化与绩效之间存在非线性关系这一当前结论时所面临的方法论挑战。其次, 我们认为, 为了更好地指导管理者, 文献需要沿着一条互补的路径发展——尽管过去的研究通常侧重于回答“多元化是否影响企业绩效”这一大问题, 但第二条路径将更多地侧重于识别多元化增加或减少价值的精确微观机制。第三, 我们概述了一种调查该主题的新方法, 其基础是识别: (a) 多元化影响绩效的精确潜在机制, (b) 与研究人员正在研究的机制“接近”的绩效结果, 以及 (c) 能够支持因果主张的适当研究设计。最后, 我们概述了一系列未来研究的方向。

51. Similar But Not the Same: Differentiating Corporate Sustainability from Corporate Responsibility

相似但不相同：区分企业可持续性与企业责任

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Corporate responsibility and sustainability tackle the relationship between business and society. However, the two fields of study have converged to become deeply entangled and blurred so that researchers from both research traditions now speak to the same business risks and opportunities. A field’s development is shaped by the clarity of its constructs and underlying assumptions; however, such clarity has eroded in responsibility and sustainability research. By tracing the development of these fields, we show that responsibility and sustainability were historically distinctive. Responsibility research took a normative position, railing against the amorality of business; sustainability research took a systems perspective, sounding the alarm of business-driven failures in natural systems. The convergence in responsibility and sustainability has not only confused constructs but has also vacated vast tracts of unexplored territory that can inform the relationship between business and society. By sharpening the distinctiveness between responsibility and sustainability, we call for further research to deepen the areas of research unique to each of these two fields of study and explore their complementarities and intersections.

企业责任和可持续性共同应对商业与社会之间的关系。然而，这两个研究领域已经趋于融合，变得深度纠缠和模糊，以至于来自这两个研究传统的学者现在都在探讨相同的商业风险和机遇。一个领域的发展取决于其构念和基本假设的清晰度；然而，这种清晰度在责任和可持续性研究中已经受到侵蚀。通过追溯这些领域的发展，我们展示了责任和可持续性在历史上是各具特色的。责任研究采取规范性立场，抨击商业的非道德性；可持续性研究则采取系统视角，对自然系统中由商业驱动的失败发出警报。责任与可持续性的融合不仅混淆了构念，还空出了大量未开发的领域，而这些领域可以为商业与社会的关系提供见解。通过强化责任与可持续性之间的区别，我们呼吁进一步研究，以深化这两个研究领域各自独特的领域，并探索它们的互补性和交集。

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Observation is key to management scholarship and practice. Yet a holistic view of its role in management has been elusive, in part due to shifting terminology. The current popularity of the term “transparency” provides the occasion for a thorough review, which finds (a) a shift in the object of observation from organizational outcomes to the detailed individual activities within them; (b) a shift from people observing the technology to technology observing people; and (c) a split in the field, with managers viewing observation almost entirely from the observer’s perspective, leaving the perspective of the observed to the realm of scholarly methodology courses and philosophical debates on privacy. I suggest how the literature on transparency and related literatures might be improved with research designed in light of these trends.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

People care about the way that other members of their work groups and organizations view them. That is, they care about their social worth or social reputation at work. These concerns are the foundation of two distinct lines of scholarly research: one on status and the other on respect. Yet, although the research literatures on people’s sense of their own status and respect both explore the same fundamental concerns, they differ in their conceptual origins, theorized assumptions, motivational underpinnings, judgment processes, and the group dynamics that they ascribe to social worth. Overall, the status and respect literatures provide differing images of the dynamics of individuals' social worth at work. However, these literatures have been largely disconnected from one another, and there have been relatively few systematic efforts to analyze their differences and similarities. We address this gap by reviewing and comparing the status and respect literatures. Our analysis leads us to conclude that although status research and respect research are highly distinct, the two research areas ultimately investigate the same phenomenon and should be integrated more extensively. Moreover, our analysis highlights several limitations and gaps in prior research on status and respect. We suggest opportunities for integrating status and respect research and for developing a more complete understanding of the dynamics of social worth at work.

人们关心工作组和组织中其他成员对他们的看法。也就是说，他们关心自己在工作中的社会价值或社会声誉。这些关注点是两条截然不同的学术研究路线的基础：一条关于地位，另一条关于尊重。然而，尽管关于人们对自己地位感和尊重感的研究文献都探讨了相同的基本关注点，但它们在概念起源、理论假设、动机基础、判断过程以及它们归因于社会价值的群体动力学方面存在差异。总体而言，地位和尊重文献为工作中个人社会价值的动态提供了不同的图景。然而，这些文献在很大程度上彼此脱节，分析它们异同的系统性努力相对较少。我们通过回顾和比较地位与尊重文献来弥补这一差距。我们的分析得出的结论是，尽管地位研究和尊重研究高度不同，但这两个研究领域最终调查的是同一种现象，应该进行更广泛的整合。此外，我们的分析强调了先前关于地位和尊重研究中的几个局限性和空白。我们提出了整合地位和尊重研究的机会，并为更全面地理解工作中社会价值的动态提供了建议。

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Organizational control is a key managerial function, and the focus of a great deal of research in the management and organizations field. Our concern is that research has not kept pace with changes in contemporary organizations and the external environment. In response to this concern, we review extant empirical work on organizational control with an emphasis on the consequences of control (i.e., the control–outcome linkage). As part of our analytical process, we surface theories underlying existing control frameworks used in empirical research and identify key dimensions implied by the frameworks. The three dimensions of control—control formality, control coerciveness, and control singularity—map onto traditional versus more current issues in and around organizations, and therefore prove helpful in assessing the existing research stream. Based on our review, we show how control–outcome research has in fact reached a troublesome point in its evolution, particularly concerning quantitative research. Older frameworks, theories, and issues seem to have limited theorizing that better fits today's realities, and several empirical tactics appear to be negatively affecting quantitative work. We close with actionable suggestions for an area of scholarship that continues to have great potential.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Individual work performance has been a central topic for scholars over the past century. There is a mass of research on performance but it is embodied in a variety of disconnected literatures each using their own set of constructs and theoretical lenses. In this paper, we synthesize this disparate literature to better understand individual work performance and pave the way for future research. First, using a bibliometric technique to analyze 9,299 articles, we identify the cumulative intellectual structure of the field and show how the field has evolved over the past 40 years. Second, drawing on the Griffin, Neal, and Parker (2007) model, we classify 97 performance constructs according to their form (proficiency, adaptivity, proactivity) and level of contribution (individual, team, organization). We conclude this model is useful for understanding the similarities and differences among many distinct performance constructs. Third, using the Griffin et al. (2007) model, we illuminate the nomological network by mapping the antecedents and outcomes of each form and level of contribution. Our synthesis identified theoretically relevant and differentiating antecedents of form; whereas the nomological network is underdeveloped in relation to the level of contribution. Finally, we propose 18 recommendations which include ensuring conceptual clarity for performance constructs, expanding theoretical models to account for more performance dimensions, greater attention to the underlying mechanisms through which individual performance contributes to higher-level outcomes, increased consideration of how performance changes over time and across contexts, and more investigations into how multiple performance constructs interact with each other to shape effectiveness.

在过去的一个世纪里，个人工作绩效一直是学者们关注的核心话题。关于绩效的研究汗牛充栋，但它们体现在各种相互脱节的文献中，每种文献都使用自己的一套构念和理论视角。在本文中，我们整合了这些分散的文献，以更好地理解个人工作绩效，并为未来的研究铺平道路。首先，利用文献计量技术对 9,299 篇文章进行分析，我们识别了该领域的累积知识结构，并展示了该领域在过去 40 年中的演变过程。其次，借鉴 Griffin、Neal 和 Parker (2007) 的模型，我们根据形式（熟练度、适应性、主动性）和贡献层次（个人、团队、组织）对 97 个绩效构念进行了分类。我们得出结论，该模型对于理解许多不同绩效构念之间的异同非常有用。第三，利用 Griffin 等人 (2007) 的模型，我们通过映射每种形式和贡献层次的前因和结果，阐明了其命名网络。我们的整合识别了与形式相关的具有理论相关性和区分性的前因；而与贡献层次相关的命名网络则发展不足。最后，我们提出了 18 条建议，包括确保绩效构念的概念清晰度、扩展理论模型以涵盖更多绩效维度、更多地关注个人绩效贡献于更高层次结果的底层机制、更多地考虑绩效如何随时间和跨情境变化，以及更多地调查多个绩效构念如何相互作用以塑造有效性。

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Social exchange theory is one of the most prominent conceptual perspectives in management, as well as related fields like sociology and social psychology. An important criticism of social exchange theory; however, is that it lacks sufficient theoretical precision, and thus has limited utility. Scholars who apply social exchange theory are able to explain many social phenomena in post hoc manner but are severely limited in their ability to make useful a priori predictions regarding workplace behavior. In this review, we discuss social exchange theory as it exists today and identify four critical issues within the social exchange paradigm that warrant additional consideration. The four concerns, around which we center this review, include the following: (1) overlapping constructs that need to be more clearly distinguished; (2) insufficient appreciation to the positive or negative hedonic value of these various constructs; (3) an assumption of bipolarity, which treats negative constructs (e.g., abuse) as the absence of positive constructs (e.g., support); and, following from the prior three issues, (4) theoretically imprecise behavioral predictions. Given that these problems are inherent in the current unidimensional framework for social exchange theory, we suggest an additional dimension—activity. We explain how conceptualizing social exchange within a two-dimensional space, while giving equal consideration to both hedonic value and activity, creates new opportunities for future research.

摘要 (中文):

社会交换理论是管理学以及社会学和心理学等相关领域中最突出的概念视角之一。然而，对社会交换理论的一个重要批评是它缺乏足够的理论精确度，因此效用有限。应用社会交换理论的学者能够以事后方式解释许多社会现象，但在对职场行为进行有用的事前预测方面的能力受到严重限制。在这篇综述中，我们讨论了目前存在的社会交换理论，并确定了社会交换范式中值得额外考虑的四个关键问题。我们围绕这四个关注点展开本综述，包括：(1) 需要更清晰区分的重叠构念；(2) 对这些各种构念的正向或负向享乐价值认识不足；(3) 双极性假设，即将负向构念（如虐待）视为正向构念（如支持）的缺失；以及，由前三个问题引出的(4) 理论上不精确的行为预测。鉴于这些问题是当前社会交换理论一维框架所固有的，我们建议增加一个维度——活动性。我们解释了如何在二维空间内概念化社会交换，同时同等考虑享乐价值和活动性，从而为未来的研究创造新的机会。

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Entrepreneurial ventures face unique challenges related to growth, particularly in managing their internal organizations. Progress on understanding these dynamics has been constrained by fragmentation within relevant management research. In this paper, we clarify and describe two narratives that have emerged within past and current research on growth and the internal organization. The first narrative draws attention to the surprising endurance of organizational features during growth; the second, their dramatic change. We juxtapose the two narratives to reveal ongoing gaps in the study of how growth can effect change along three dimensions: organizational design, team composition, and organizational culture. We conclude with recommendations on how future research can be enriched through a systematic examination of how entrepreneurial ventures navigate the organizational dilemmas growth presents.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

The goal of this review is to organize, synthesize, and critically appraise the literature on courage—a concept as old as the written word—to create a common base for the study of “workplace courage.” To situate what follows, we begin with a brief review of the diverse foundational and current courage literature. We then use the literature and our critique to suggest a grounded working definition for the workplace courage construct, to discuss the overlap between workplace courage and many related organizational phenomenon and constructs, and to review four main approaches to the study of workplace courage. We next review the “perspective problem” in the study of courage (and related constructs), proposing a path forward that involves explicit researcher acknowledgement of the appropriate perspective(s) based on theoretical interests, as well as research attention to the causes and consequences of (dis)agreement in perspective itself. We conclude by outlining additional focused opportunities—such as those involving the role of gender, emotions, and time—to advance understanding of workplace courage.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Research on the consequences of diversity in teams continues to produce inconsistent results. We review the recent developments in diversity research and identify two shortcomings. First, an understanding of the microdynamics affecting processes and outcomes in diverse teams is lacking. Second, diversity research has tended to treat different social categories as equivalent and thus not considered how members' experiences may be affected by their social category membership. We address these shortcomings by reviewing research on stereotypes, which indicates that stereotypes initiate reinforcing microdynamics among (a) attributions of a target team member's warmth and competence, (b) perceiving members' behavior toward the target team member, and (c) the target team member's behavior. Our review suggests that perceivers' impression formation motivation is the key determinant of the extent to which perceivers continue to treat a target based on categorization. On the basis of our review, we provide an integrative perspective and corresponding model that outlines these Microdynamics of Diversity and Stereotyping in Teams (MIDST) and indicates how stereotyping can benefit as well as harm team functioning. We discuss how this integrative perspective on the MIDST relates to the social categorization and the information/decision-making perspective, set a research agenda, and discuss the managerial implications.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Mergers and acquisitions (M&As) continue to be prevalent despite frequently yielding disappointing outcomes. Postmerger integration plays a critical role in M&A success, yet many questions about M&A implementation remain unanswered. In this article, we review research on postmerger integration, which we organize around strategic integration, sociocultural integration, and experience and learning. We then lay out a research agenda that centers on expanding our understanding of processual dynamics in postmerger integration. We focus on opportunities related to temporality, decision-making, practices and tools, and emotionality.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

While families have a large and undeniable impact on human behavior, management research is yet to fully embrace how aspects of families (e.g., family-member relationships, family structures, and family events) influence entrepreneurs, employees, managers, and their organizations. There is a large body of research known as family science that draws from sociology, psychology, and education and offers theories that describe families and explains important family outcomes. Management researchers have not widely exploited knowledge from family science, but it could be applied to advance management theories by answering questions about how families impact organizations and the people in them. Therefore, we review seven family science theories and leverage our review to map research agendas for how management researchers might use each theory to advance understanding of how families influence organizations and vice versa. Our review suggests a wide range of research topics in management that could advance by drawing upon family science research.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Understanding why some firms survive while others fail is a central question of strategic management research. Indeed, many consider survival the quintessential indicator of firm performance. As such, survival research is vast, but also frustratingly disjointed across several thematic areas in the organizational literature. In this review of firm survival and failure, we organize this research across three stages of firm development: new ventures, single-business units, and diversified firms. We therefore add order to the diverse survival literatures and clarify how scholars' conceptualizations of survival differ. Notably, the conceptualization of survival of different streams reflects a multifaceted construct including three dimensions: operations, ownership, and solvency. Identifying these dimensions provides a lens that adds clarity when reviewing the literature as well as important richness to better situate future work on survival and failure. In addition, we highlight outdated assumptions prevalent in this research, which have further limited the theoretical development of survival and failure. This review also sheds light on the timely question: "who benefits or suffers from survival and failure?," as scholars and policymakers alike seek to understand factors that promote entrepreneurial activity and grapple at the other end of the spectrum with "too big to fail" policies.

摘要 (中文):

理解为什么有些企业能够生存而另一些企业会失败是战略管理研究的一个核心问题。事实上，许多人认为生存是企业绩效的精髓指标。因此，生存研究非常广泛，但在组织文献的几个主题领域中也令人沮丧地脱节。在这篇关于企业生存与失败的回顾中，我们将这一研究划分为企业发展的三个阶段：新创企业、单一业务单元和多元化企业。因此，我们为多样化的生存文献增加了秩序，并阐明了学者们对生存的概念化有何不同。值得注意的是，不同流派对生存的概念化反映了一个多维度的构念，包括三个维度：运营、所有权和偿付能力。识别这些维度提供了一个视角，在回顾文献时增加了清晰度，并为更好地定位未来关于生存和失败的研究提供了重要的丰富性。此外，我们强调了这项研究中普遍存在的过时假设，这些假设进一步限制了生存和失败的理论发展。本回顾还阐明了一个及时的问题：“谁从生存和失败中受益或受害？”，因为学者和政策制定者都在寻求理解促进创业活动的因素，并在光谱的另一端努力应对“大而不倒”的政策。

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

In ever-changing environments, strategic change manifests as a crucial concern for firms and is thus central to the fields of management and strategy. Common and foundational to all strategic change research is time —whether recognized in the extant studies or not. In this article, we critically review the existing body of knowledge through a time lens. We organize this review along (1) conceptions of time in strategic change, (2) time and strategic change activities, and (3) time and strategic change agents. This approach facilitates our assessment of what scholars do and do not know about strategic change, especially its temporal components. Our review has particularly revealed a need to advance scholarly understanding about the processual dynamics of strategic change. We thus extend our assessment by proposing six pathways for advancing future research on strategic change that aim at fostering an understanding of its processual dynamics: (1) temporality, (2) actors, (3) emotionality, (4) tools and practices, (5) complexity, and (6) tensions.

在不断变化的环境中, 战略变革表现为企业的一个关键关注点, 因此是管理和战略领域的核心。所有战略变革研究的共同基础是时间——无论在现有研究中是否得到承认。在本文中, 我们通过时间的视角批判性地回顾了现有的知识体系。我们围绕以下三个方面组织了此次综述: (1) 战略变革中的时间概念, (2) 时间与战略变革活动, 以及 (3) 时间与战略变革主体。这种方法有助于我们评估学者们对战略变革 (尤其是其时间组成部分) 的已知和未知之处。我们的综述特别揭示了推进学术界对战略变革过程动力学理解的必要性。因此, 我们通过提出六个旨在促进对其过程动力学理解的推进未来战略变革研究的路径来扩展我们的评估: (1) 时间性, (2) 行动者, (3) 情感性, (4) 工具与实践, (5) 复杂性, 以及 (6) 张力。

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Social media—computer-mediated tools of the Web 2.0 generation that make it possible for anyone to create, circulate, share, and exchange information in a variety of formats and with multiple communities—have become increasingly widespread in today's organizations. Social media have started to affect multiple organizational phenomena and processes. This article pursues three interrelated goals. First, it provides a theoretical framework, based upon the concept of affordances, to theorize the potential implications of social media use for organizing. Second, it reviews existing scholarship on social media and organizing, highlighting social media diffusion, use, and implications for organizational processes of communication, collaboration, and knowledge sharing. Third, it relies upon the affordance perspective and existing scholarship to articulate an agenda for future research on social media and organizing, advocating for a diversification of the phenomena under study and for greater diversity and innovativeness in the methodological approaches devised to investigate these phenomena.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Self-control is an important component of organizational life, with organizational members constantly needing to exert self-control to overcome their desires and achieve long-term goals. Attesting to this importance, much research has focused on why individuals lose self-control and the consequences of self-control failure for individuals and organizations. Unfortunately, this research has overly focused on one component of self-control—resource depletion perspectives (and ego depletion perspectives in particular)—while neglecting other components that play equally important roles in the self-control process. As such, we argue that the organizational literature has failed to appreciate the broader picture of what components are involved in the self-control process, and the extent to which these components are intertwined with organizational phenomenon. In this review, we address these issues by using an integrative self-control theory framework to review the management self-control literature, outlining seven components of self-control within three broad phases of the self-control process (activation, exertion, and enactment). This framework integrates the relevant literature into a larger self-control process model, and highlights concerns with existing depletion perspectives as well as the lack of attention paid to other components in the self-control process. We discuss the implications of these issues for future research on self-control.

自我控制是组织生活的重要组成部分，组织成员不断需要行使自我控制来克服欲望并实现长期目标。为了证明这种重要性，许多研究都集中在个体为何失去自我控制以及自我控制失败对个体和组织的影响。不幸的是，这项研究过度集中于自我控制的一个组成部分——资源损耗视角（特别是自我损耗视角），而忽视了在自我控制过程中起着同样重要作用的其他组成部分。因此，我们认为组织文献未能领会自我控制过程中涉及哪些组成部分的更广泛图景，以及这些组成部分与组织现象交织的程度。在这篇综述中，我们通过使用一个整合的自我控制理论框架来回顾管理学中的自我控制文献，概述了自我控制过程三个广泛阶段（激活、努力和执行）中的七个自我控制组成部分。该框架将相关文献整合到一个更大的自我控制过程模型中，并强调了对现有损耗视角的担忧，以及对自我控制过程中其他组成部分关注不足的问题。我们讨论了这些问题对未来自我控制研究的影响。

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Ever since the Internet boom of the mid-1990s, firms have been experimenting with new ways of doing business and achieving their goals, which has led to a branching of the scholarly literature on business models. Three interpretations of the meaning and function of “business models” have emerged from the management literature: (1) business models as attributes of real firms, (2) business models as cognitive/linguistic schemas, and (3) business models as formal conceptual representations of how a business functions. Relatedly, a provocative debate about the relationship between business models and strategy has fascinated many scholars. We offer a critical review of this now vast business model literature with the goal of organizing the literature and achieving greater understanding of the larger picture in this increasingly important research area. In addition to complementing and extending prior reviews, we also aim at a second and more important contribution: We aim at identifying the reasons behind the apparent lack of agreement in the interpretation of business models, and the relationship between business models and strategy. Whether strategy scholars consider business model research a new field may be due to the fact that the business model perspective may be challenging the assumptions of traditional theories of value creation and capture by focusing on value creation on the demand side and supply side, rather than focusing on value creation on the supply side only as these theories have done. We conclude by discussing how the business model perspective can contribute to research in different fields, offering future research directions.

自 20 世纪 90 年代中期的互联网繁荣以来,企业一直在尝试新的经营方式和实现目标的方法,这导致了关于商业模式的学术文献的分支。管理学文献中出现了“商业模式”含义和功能的三个解释:(1)商业模式作为真实企业的属性;(2)商业模式作为认知/语言图式;(3)商业模式作为企业运作方式的正式概念表示。与此相关,关于商业模式与战略之间关系的挑衅性辩论吸引了许多学者。我们对这一目前庞大的商业模式文献进行了批判性回顾,旨在整理文献并对这一日益重要的研究领域的宏观图景达成更深入的理解。除了补充和扩展先前的综述外,我们还旨在做出第二个且更重要的贡献:我们旨在确定商业模式解释以及商业模式与战略关系中明显缺乏共识背后的原因。战略学者是否认为商业模式研究是一个新领域,可能归因于商业模式视角可能正在挑战传统价值创造和获取理论的假设,因为它关注需求侧和供给侧的价值创造,而不是像这些理论那样仅关注供给侧的价值创造。最后,我们讨论了商业模式视角如何为不同领域的研究做出贡献,并提出了未来的研究方向。

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

High-quality work design is a key determinant of employee well-being, positive work attitudes, and job/organizational performance. Yet, many job incumbents continue to experience deskilled and demotivating work. We argue that there is a need to understand better where work designs come from. We review research that investigates the factors that influence work design, noting that this research is only a small fragment of the work design literature. The research base is also rather disparate, spanning distinct theoretical perspectives according to the level of analysis. To help integrate this literature, we use a framework that summarizes the direct and indirect ways in which work design is shaped by the higher-level external context (global/international, national, and occupational factors), the organizational context, the local work context (work group factors), and individual factors. We highlight two key indirect effects: first, factors affect formal decision-making processes via influencing managers' work design-related motivation, knowledge, skills, and abilities (KSAs), and opportunities; and second, factors shape informal and emergent work design processes via influencing employees' work design-related motivation, KSAs, and opportunities. By reviewing the literature according to this framework, we set the stage for more comprehensive theoretical development and empirical studies on the factors that influence work design.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Despite a growing body of literature on diversity and firm performance, our review of research across fields, theoretical traditions, and levels of analysis suggests that the relationship is not a simple one. However, we attempt to integrate theory and research from macro and micro research domains into one perspective on the firm-level performance effects of diversity. We review the results of research on diversity and firm performance based on the level of analysis at which diversity was examined, highlighting what we know and do not know about this relationship, and why a new approach to research in this area is needed. To set a future research agenda, we introduce a dynamic capabilities framework for studying diversity and firm performance, identifying a subset of capabilities through which we would expect firms to extract benefit (or loss) from diversity and articulate the underlying mechanisms through which such effects are likely to occur. By putting forth this framework, our goal is to offer an integrative, process-based perspective for understanding value creation and capture as it pertains to diversity, and encouraging a more systemic approach to the study of diversity and firm performance.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

A growing body of research unveils the ubiquity of ambivalence—the simultaneous experience of positive and negative emotional or cognitive orientations toward a person, situation, object, task, or goal—in organizations, and argues that its experience may be the norm rather than the exception. Although traditionally viewed as something to be avoided, organizational scholars in fields ranging from microorganizational behavior to strategy have made significant advances in exploring the positive outcomes of ambivalence. However, despite identifying benefits of ambivalence that are critical to organizing (e.g., trust, adaptation, and creativity), research remains fragmented and siloed. The primary purpose of this review is to advance research on ambivalence by reviewing, synthesizing, and ultimately reconciling prior work on the negative consequences with promising emerging work on the positive—that is, functional and beneficial—outcomes of or responses to ambivalence. We significantly extend prior work by demonstrating that the myriad negative and positive outcomes of ambivalence may be organized around two key dimensions that underlie most research on the effects of ambivalence: (1) a flexibility dimension: inflexibility to flexibility and (2) an engagement dimension: disengagement to engagement. We further discuss the mechanisms and moderators that can lead to the more positive sides of these dimensions and suggest avenues for future research.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

This paper provides a historical review of the conceptualization and measurement of organizational justice. We demonstrate how, over time, a dominant norm for conceptualizing and measuring justice has emerged. We posit that although consistent conceptualization and measurement across justice studies can enable the accumulation of knowledge, if the dominant approach is incomplete, this can impede the accumulation of knowledge and risk construct reification. We suggest that these risks are high given that (a) contemporary approaches to measuring fairness perceptions fail to capture the full domain of organizational justice as it was initially conceptualized by early scholars; (b) despite a foundation of “classic” theories, our field has yet to systematically map the justice domain; and (c) the normative operationalizations of organizational justice are based on observations that predate the 21st century workplace. We offer suggestions for future research and new approaches to assessing workplace fairness. Our paper’s goal, ultimately, is to reconsider how justice is conceptualized and measured so that the findings obtained from future empirical justice studies can go beyond the constraints of the current paradigm.

本文对组织公正的概念化和测量进行了历史回顾。我们展示了随着时间的推移, 一种主导性的组织公正概念化和测量规范是如何出现的。我们认为, 尽管在公正研究中保持一致的概念化和测量可以促进知识的积累, 但如果这种主导方法是不完整的, 则可能会阻碍知识的积累并带来概念物化的风险。我们认为这些风险很高, 原因在于: (a) 当代测量公平感知的方法未能涵盖早期学者最初构想的组织公正的完整领域; (b) 尽管有“经典”理论作为基础, 我们的领域尚未系统地绘制公正领域的蓝图; 以及 (c) 组织公正的规范性操作化是基于对21世纪以前职场的观察。我们为未来的研究和评估职场公平的新方法提出了建议。归根结底, 本文的目标是重新思考公正如何被概念化和测量, 以便从未来实证公正研究中获得的研究结果能够超越当前范式的限制。

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

This article unpacks the concept of cooperation in management. To stimulate future research, we illustrate the different conceptualizations of cooperation in strategic management, organization theory, and behavioral economics, and the unique insights that each discipline offers. Based on this account, we discuss overlaps and differences in how the concept has been used in these fields and across their different levels of theory and analysis. By taking strategic alliances and other interfirm relations as an exemplary illustration, we elaborate a research agenda on how the understanding of cooperation at each level of analysis—firm/alliance, work group/team, individual and interindividual—would benefit from greater integration of knowledge from other levels. Borrowing from the different disciplines, we explicate the social mechanisms—and related research directions—determining cooperation and their outcomes across levels: from macro-to-micro (e.g., explaining how cultural issues, different alliance structures, and organizational designs affect the cooperative behavior of interfirm team members); micro-to-micro (e.g., how individual motivation to cooperate or defect, or how different leadership styles, affect interfirm team members' collaboration); and micro-to-macro (e.g., how self-interested individuals who identify with their firm can be aggregated into collaborative interfirm bureaucracies). The emerging framework contributes to the understanding of the micro foundations of management phenomena by placing cooperative relationships between and among persons at center stage in explaining how organizational outcomes are generated.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

We review recent research that employs an open politics perspective on organizations. Open politics research combines an open systems conception of organizations as intimately linked to their external environment with scholarship that treats organizations as politics—associations of groups with evolving interests and resources that operate within the constraints and opportunities afforded by a formal organizational system. In this perspective, external political environments seep into the internal political dynamics of organizations in various ways, and those internal politics in turn mediate organization-level outcomes in relation to external pressures. We use the framework of the open polity perspective to 1) connect largely parallel literatures at a meta-theoretical level and thus point to ways in which they can inform each other, 2) identify key processes through which internal and external politics are linked and single out organizational dimensions for the comparative analysis of organizations as politics, and 3) identify open questions and opportunities for future research in this perspective.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Research on crisis management and resilience has sought to explain how individuals and organizations anticipate and respond to adversity, yet—surprisingly—there has been little integration across these two literatures. In this paper, we review the literatures on crisis management and resilience and discuss opportunities to both integrate and advance these streams of research. We identify unique lines of work on crisis and crisis management: crisis-as-an-event and crisis-as-process. We review complementary streams of research in the resilience literature and explore their implications for studies of crisis. Building on these reviews, we develop an integrative framework that is focused around key themes of both crisis and resilience, including capabilities for durability, organizing and adjusting, responding to major disturbances, and a feedback loop from these experiences. Following this, we offer a research agenda that centers on understanding and explaining the interaction between crisis and resilience as they occur in a dynamic process. We then discuss research opportunities that explore the dynamic relationship of resilience and crisis as it relates to leadership, time, complexity, and mindfulness. Finally, we note how researchers can consider the dark side of resilience.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Scholars have devoted considerable effort to exploring the causes of executive behavior, with the accumulated research spanning multiple social science disciplines. This variety is beneficial in that numerous theories and methodologies have been brought to bear on the topic, but over time has led to increasingly fragmented literatures that often differ widely in their causal accounts of executive behavior. Confronted by such fragmentation, scholars in this domain tend to examine research questions through the lens of a single motivational perspective when developing and testing models. We believe that a more holistic perspective on the drivers of executive behavior can help scholars build richer models that bridge disciplinary silos by reframing existing theories in a new light. We specifically aim to bring clarity to this domain by developing a parsimonious framework for understanding executive motives in terms of the nature of the rewards (pecuniary versus nonpecuniary) that motivate executive action and the motivational frame of reference (individualized versus socialized agency) for conceptualizing rewards. Using this bidimensional framework to synthesize research from the last decade, we outline a platform for research that conceptualizes executive motives as the lynchpin for understanding, integrating, and advancing theoretical perspectives on executive behavior.

学者们投入了大量精力探索高管行为的原因，积累的研究跨越了多个社会科学学科。这种多样性是有益的，因为许多理论和方法论已被应用于该主题，但随着时间的推移，这导致了日益碎片化的文献，这些文献在高管行为的因果解释上往往存在巨大差异。面对这种碎片化，该领域的学者在开发和测试模型时，往往倾向于通过单一动机视角的镜头来审视研究问题。我们认为，关于高管行为驱动因素的更全面的视角可以帮助学者通过以新的视角重新构建现有理论，构建更丰富的模型，从而弥合学科孤岛。我们特别旨在通过开发一个简约的框架来为该领域带来清晰度，该框架根据激励高管行动的奖励性质（金钱与非金钱）以及概念化奖励的动机参考框架（个体化与社会化代理）来理解高管动机。利用这一双维框架综合过去十年的研究，我们概述了一个研究平台，将高管动机概念化为理解、整合和推进高管行为理论视角的关键。

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

The concept of an institutional field is one of the cornerstones of institutional theory, and yet the concept has been stretched both theoretically and empirically, making consolidation of findings across multiple studies more difficult. In this article, we review the literature and analyze empirical studies of institutional fields to build scaffolding for the cumulation of research on institutional fields. Our review revealed two types of fields: exchange and issue fields, with three subtypes of each. We describe their characteristics, and subsequently, review field conditions in the extant literature and develop a typology based on two dimensions: the extent of elaboration of institutional infrastructure and the extent to which there is an agreed-upon prioritization of logics. We discuss the implications of field types and conditions for isomorphism, agency, and field change, based on a review of the literature that revealed six pathways of field change and the factors affecting them. We outline a research agenda based on our review highlighting the need for consolidation of field studies and identify several outstanding issues that are in need of further research.

制度场域的概念是制度理论的基石之一, 然而该概念在理论和实证上都被过度扩展, 使得跨多项研究的研究结果整合变得更加困难。在本文中, 我们回顾了文献并分析了制度场域的实证研究, 以为制度场域研究的累积构建支架。我们的回顾揭示了两类场域: 交换场域和议题场域, 每类场域包含三个子类。我们描述了它们的特征, 随后回顾了现有文献中的场域条件, 并基于两个维度开发了一个分类法: 制度基础设施的完善程度以及逻辑优先级达成一致的程度。基于对揭示了六条场域变迁路径及其影响因素的文献回顾, 我们讨论了场域类型和条件对同构、能动性和场域变迁的影响。我们根据回顾概述了一个研究议程, 强调了整合场域研究的必要性, 并确定了几个需要进一步研究的悬而未决的问题。

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Management and organizational scholarship is overdue for a reappraisal of occupations and professions as well as a critical review of past and current work on the topic. Indeed, the field has largely failed to keep pace with the rising salience of occupational and professional (as opposed to organizational) dynamics in work life. Our goal is therefore two-fold: first, to offer guidance to scholars less familiar with this terrain who encounter occupational or professional dynamics in their own inquiries and, second, to introduce a three-part framework for conceptualizing occupations and professions to help guide future inquiries. We suggest that occupations and professions can be understood through lenses of “becoming”, “doing”, and “relating”. We develop this framework as we review past literature and discuss the implications of each approach for future research and, more broadly, for the field of management and organizational theory.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

The surge of interest in expatriation and repatriation within the broader discourse on labor mobility of professionals and high-skilled labor, human capital development, and the theory and practice of people management serves as the backdrop to this paper. We propose that expatriation and repatriation be framed in the context of global careers and embedded in the wider social-economic environment of globalization through the lens of a career ecosystem theory. We chart the evolution of scholarly publications on career mobility over the past four decades and highlight current trends, in particular the emergence of self-initiated expatriation as a pivotal change in the field. Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Despite the widespread interest in forgiveness across a diversity of disciplines, the study of forgiveness has been strongly influenced by a psychological (i.e. individual-level) approach. Although this has provided many fruitful insights, it has also resulted in a fragmented literature that has underemphasized the multilevel and contextual nature of this phenomenon. Drawing upon a broad multidisciplinary approach, we provide a singular definition of forgiveness and integrate research on forgiveness into a multilevel systems approach.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

More than a quarter century ago, organizational scholars began to explore the implications of prosociality in organizations. Three interrelated streams have emerged from this work, which focus on prosocial motives (the desire to benefit others or expend effort out of concern for others), prosocial behaviors (acts that promote/protect the welfare of individuals, groups, or organizations), and prosocial impact (the experience of making a positive difference in the lives of others through one's work). Prior studies have highlighted the importance of prosocial motives, behaviors, and impact, and have enhanced our understanding of each of them.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Organizations are frequent targets for social activists aiming to influence society by first altering organizational policies and practices. Reflecting a steady rise in research on this topic, we review recent literature and advance an insider-outsider framework to help explicate the diverse mechanisms and pathways involved. Our framework distinguishes between different types of activists based on their relationship with targeted organizations. For example, “insider” activists who are employees of the target organization have certain advantages and disadvantages when compared with “outsider” activists who are members of independent social movement organizations. We also distinguish between the direct and indirect (or spillover) effects of social activism. Much research has focused on the direct effects of activism on targeted organizations, but often the effects on non-targeted organizations matter more for activists goals of achieving widespread change.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

For the first time, this volume of the Academy of Management Annals features two articles that we paired together to present complementary perspectives on a common theme. Schad, Lewis, Raisch, and Smith (2016) review research on paradox theory in management science, and Putnam, Fairhurst, and Banghart (2016) cover research on contradictions, dialectics, and paradoxes in organizations. Why take a chance (and devote so much space) by publishing two contiguous articles on one general topic? We are trying this experiment in the hope that readers can learn more about the topic by reading the two articles back to back rather than separately.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

We provide an integrative review of the empirical literature on leadership and affect (emotion, mood, and affective dispositions), which is first and foremost a literature on leader displays of affect. We conclude that the influence of leader affective displays can be understood through the mediation paths of emotional contagion and cognitive interpretation of affect in combination with the first and second-stage moderators of these paths. We also conclude that the common yet overly simplistic notion that leader displays of positive affect are more effective than leader displays of negative affect can in important part be attributed to an overreliance on subjective ratings as indicators of leadership effectiveness, whereas behavioral indicators of leadership effectiveness suggest a more contingent view of the effectiveness of positive and negative affective displays. We propose that to bolster and further develop these conclusions, we need (a) more research focusing on moderation in dual-path mediation; (b) development of theory about cognitive interpretations following leader affective displays; and (c) more sophisticated models of the difference amongst different affective states to better capture the complexity of their effects.

我们对关于领导力与情感（情绪、心境和情感特质）的实证文献进行了综合回顾，这首先是关于领导者情感展示的文献。我们得出结论，领导者情感展示的影响可以通过情绪感染和情感认知解释的中介路径，以及这些路径的第一阶段和第二阶段调节变量来理解。我们还得出结论，认为领导者展示积极情感比展示消极情感更有效的普遍但过于简单的观点，在很大程度上归因于过度依赖主观评分作为领导效能的指标，而领导效能的行为指标则表明，积极和消极情感展示的有效性更具情境性。我们建议，为了支持并进一步发展这些结论，我们需要：(a) 更多关注双路径中介中调节作用的研究；(b) 发展关于领导者情感展示后认知解释的理论；以及 (c) 建立更精细的不同情感状态差异模型，以更好地捕捉其影响的复杂性。

Our review shows that specific occupational tasks and contextual demands imply different connotations of what exactly “resilience” means and how contexts may constrain or foster resiliency. Occupational resilience involves (1) multiple conceptual strands related to accessing resources (trait, capacity, and processes); (2) positive and negative triggers that are occupationally distinguished; (3) different resilience types (cognitive, emotional, and physical) that vary in need, breadth, and importance across occupations; (4) a dynamic phenomenon that occurs within and across career stages; (5) both content-general, and job-specific occupational tensions; and (6) work and nonwork domains. Multi-level occupational-specific and comparative studies, adaptive performance and risk taking across the work–nonwork interface are highlighted areas for future research.

90. Contradictions, Dialectics, and Paradoxes in Organizations: A Constitutive Approach

组织中的矛盾、辩证法与悖论：一种建构性视角

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

This article presents a constitutive approach to the study of organizational contradictions, dialectics, paradoxes, and tensions. In particular, it highlights five constitutive dimensions (i.e., discourse, developmental actions, socio-historical conditions, presence in multiples, and praxis) that appear across the literature in five metatheoretical traditions—process-based systems, structuration, critical, postmodern, and relational dialectics. In exploring these dimensions, it defines and distinguishes among key constructs, links research to process outcomes, and sets forth a typology of alternative ways of responding to organizational tensions. It concludes by challenging researchers to sharpen their focus on time in process studies, privilege emotion in relation to rationality, and explore the dialectic between order and disorder.

本文提出了研究组织矛盾、辩证法、悖论和张力的建构性视角。特别是，它强调了在五个元理论传统（基于过程的系统论、结构化理论、批判理论、后现代主义和关系辩证法）的文献中出现的五个建构维度（即话语、发展性行动、社会历史条件、多重存在和实践）。在探索这些维度的过程中，本文定义并区分了关键构念，将研究与过程结果联系起来，并提出了应对组织张力的替代方式的分类法。最后，本文挑战研究者在过程研究中加强对时间的关注，赋予情感相对于理性的优先地位，并探索秩序与无序之间的辩证关系。

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Paradox studies offer vital and timely insights into an array of organizational tensions. Yet this field stands at a critical juncture. Over the past 25 years, management scholars have drawn foundational insights from philosophy and psychology to apply a paradox lens to organizational phenomena. Yet extant studies selectively leverage ancient wisdom, adopting some key insights while abandoning others. Using a structured content analysis to review the burgeoning management literature, we surface six key themes, which represent the building blocks of a meta-theory of paradox. These six themes received varying attention in extant studies: paradox scholars emphasize types of paradoxes, collective approaches, and outcomes, but pay less attention to relationships within paradoxes, individual approaches, and dynamics. As this analysis suggests, management scholars have increasingly simplified the intricate, often messy phenomena of paradox. Greater simplicity renders phenomena understandable and testable, however, oversimplifying complex realities can foster reductionist and incomplete theories. We therefore propose a future research agenda targeted at enriching a meta-theory of paradox by reengaging these less developed themes. Doing so can sharpen the focus of this field, while revisiting its rich conceptual roots to capture the intricacies of paradox. This future research agenda leverages the potential of paradox across diverse streams of management science.

The existing literature on diverse teams suggests that diversity is both helpful to teams in making more information available and encouraging creativity and damaging to teams in reducing cohesion and information sharing. Thus the extant literature suggests that diversity within teams is a double-edged sword that leads to both positive and negative effects simultaneously. Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

In this review, we aim to advance work on group and team dynamics by examining how important elements of dynamism are embedded in the current literature on emergent states in groups. We use the concept of emergence as an organizing frame, building block, and critical lens, first summarizing key aspects of the extant literature on emergence, and then drawing four core characteristics of emergent phenomena from this literature. We use these characteristics to organize our review and examine how emergent states are portrayed in the past decade of groups literature. We end by exploring challenges to the development of a more dynamic perspective and by offering specific suggestions to guide and advance future work on groups and teams.

With this approach, we are able to examine the evolution of the DCV in written literature and identify missing research themes. Based on this review, we argue that future research will benefit from integrating the DCV with configuration theory and the recent micro foundational thinking. We encapsulate this discussion via an architectural model of the DCV (entitled “House of Dynamic Capabilities”) that combines micro foundations underlying DCs at the varying levels of analysis (individual, business unit, and organizational) while also accounting for important enablers of DCs and firm strategic orientation. We also show how this logic requires a completely different set of methodological approaches to those currently in use.

However, much of this work ignores the role that external CG practices play in preventing managers from engaging in activities detrimental to the welfare of shareholders, and the overall firm. In this essay, we first review and organize current research on external governance mechanisms and integrate this siloed body of work within the broader CG equation. We explicitly focus on six external governance mechanisms: the legal environment, the market for corporate control, external auditors, stakeholder activism, rating organizations, and the media. We discuss findings showing how external governance mechanisms act both as independent forces and in conjunction with internal CG mechanisms. We conclude the review by mapping an agenda for future research on CG that better integrates internal and external governance mechanisms. Our review suggests that studying different configurations of external and internal governance mechanisms will help us to better understand what factors and conditions lead to effective CG. The traditional shareholder value approach is too narrow a view for an economic analysis of corporate governance. I will [...] define corporate governance as the design of institutions that induce or force management to internalize the welfare of stakeholders. Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Both scholarly literature and popular accounts suggest that modern organizational practices have moved toward encouraging employees to "integrate" or blur the boundary between their personal and professional domains, for example, through self-disclosure at work, company-sponsored social activities or providing on-site child care. Concurrently, an ideology underlying U.S. professional norms discourages integration practices such as referencing non-work roles during workplace interactions, expressing emotions in the workplace, and/or displaying non-work-related items in workspaces. In this review, we posit that these two norms firmly coexist because they differentially serve two objectives corresponding to the parallel bodies of research we examine: one addressing boundary management as a tool for handling role responsibilities, and the other considering boundary management as a tool for shaping workplace identity and relationships.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Microfoundations have received increased attention in strategy and organization theory over the past decade. In this paper, we take stock of the micro-foundations movement, its origins and history, and disparate forms. We briefly touch on similar micro movements in disciplines such as economics and sociology. However, our particular focus is on the unique features of the microfoundations movement in macro management. While the microfoundations movement in macro management does seek to link with more micro disciplines such as psychology and organizational behavior, it also features a unique set of questions, assumptions, theoretical mechanisms, and independent/dependent variables that complement the focus in the micro disciplines. We also discuss the disparate criticisms of the microfoundations literature and the challenges the movement faces, such as defining distinct theoretical and empirical programs for microfoundational research. The overall purpose of this manuscript is to clearly delineate the promise and uniqueness of micro-foundations research in macro management, to discuss how the movement originated and where it is going, and to offer rich opportunities for future work.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

The study of culture is on the rise; still, this popularity comes with the cost of increasing fragmentation, as definitions and conceptualizations proliferate. The objectives of this review are twofold: first, we set out to disentangle the multiple conceptual strands used to describe culture, and second, we examine how culture relates to other key constructs, particularly identity, institutions, and practices. To start, we build from extant work in sociology to identify and discuss five prominent ways in which culture has been theorized in the management literature—values, stories, frames, toolkits, and categories—and we organize these into a framework that hinges on values and toolkits as anchors.

Research findings have established a relationship between organizational size and a substantial set of organizational outcomes, resulting in size's distinction as "perhaps the most powerful explanatory organizational covariate in strategic analysis". We examine studies over the last 20 plus years since the last review of research on organizational size that have expanded our understanding of the advantages and disadvantages of larger firms, the environmental factors that have changed the merits of firms relative to markets, the managerial bias to pursue growth, and the most recent findings on the performance implications. □Corresponding author. We distinguish between two types of literature. On the one hand, there is the programmatic literature, comprising of studies that take the perceived lack of practical relevance as their main point of departure and suggest particular ways of dealing with the issue of relevance in management research. On the other hand, there is the largely neglected descriptive literature, which examines the interplay between management research and management practice. Despite the interesting insights both bodies of literature provide, progress in this area of research is seriously hampered by the fragmentation of the research and the lack of scientific rigor that characterizes many of the studies it comprises. We argue that, in order to advance research on the practical relevance of management studies, it is necessary to move away from the partly ideological and often uncritical and unscientific debate on immediate solutions that the programmatic literature puts forward and toward a more rigorous and systematic research program to investigate how the results of scientific research are utilized in management practice.

从业者如何以及在多大程度上使用管理研究的科学结果，是管理学者非常关注的问题，并由此产生了大量的文献。在本文中，我们对该文献的不同流派进行了系统回顾，强调了其优势和不足。通讯作者。电子邮箱：david.seidl@uzh.ch 《管理学会年鉴》(The Academy of Management Annals)，2015 年第 9 卷第 1 期，143–233 页，<http://dx.doi.org/10.1080/19416520.2015.1011853> # 2015 管理学会 143 不足。我们将文献分为两类。一方面是纲领性文献，包括那些将感知到的实践相关性缺乏作为主要出发点，并提出处理管理研究中相关性问题的特定方法的各种研究。另一方面是很大程度上被忽视的描述性文献，它考察了管理研究与管理实践之间的相互作用。尽管这两类文献都提供了有趣的见解，但由于研究的碎片化以及许多研究所表现出的缺乏科学严谨性，该领域的研究进展受到了严重阻碍。我们认为，为了推进关于管理研究实践相关性的研究，有必要摆脱纲领性文献所提出的关于即时解决方案的带有部分意识形态色彩、且往往缺乏批判性和非科学的辩论，转向一个更严谨、更系统的研究计划，以调查科学研究的结果如何在管理实践中被利用。

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Income as a relatively stable aspect of a job (e.g. annual salary, non-incentive wages, or weekly or hourly pay) has received relatively little consideration in organizational theorizing and research, despite its critical importance to workers, organizations, and society at large. Income inequality has similarly received scant attention, although it is a topic of great intellectual and practical importance. In this paper we describe the ways in which income and income inequality affect how people behave in both their professional and personal lives, and suggest ways in which organizations may influence, and be influenced by, these effects. We integrate research from a number of disciplines, highlight leading findings across them, and suggest ways in which organizational scholarship can inform research and practice in this domain. Our goal is to facilitate the development of income-related research programs in organizational science.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Various streams of organizational research have examined the relationship between creativity and leadership, albeit using slightly different names such as “creative leadership”, “leading for creativity and innovation”, and “managing creatives”. In this article, we review this dispersed body of knowledge and synthesize it under a global construct of creative leadership, which refers to leading others toward the attainment of a creative outcome. Under this unifying construct, we classify three more narrow conceptualizations that we □Corresponding author. Email: bmainemelis@alba.edu.gr †The second and the third author contributed equally. Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

We review and integrate a wide range of literature that has examined the strategies by which organizations navigate institutionally diverse settings and capture rents outside of the marketplace. We synthesize this body of research under the umbrella term institutional strategies, which we define as the comprehensive set of plans and actions directed at leveraging and shaping sociopolitical and cultural institutions to obtain or retain competitive advantage. Our review of institutional strategies is focused on emerging market contexts, settings that are characterized by weak capital market and regulatory infrastructures and fast-paced turbulent change. Under such challenging conditions, strategies aimed at shaping the institutional environment may be especially critical to an organization's performance and long-term survival. Our review reveals that organizations engage in three specific and identifiable sets of institutional strategies, which we term relational, infrastructure-building, and socio-cultural bridging. We conclude by highlighting fruitful avenues for cross-disciplinary dialogue in the hope of promoting future research on emerging markets and defining the next frontier of institutional theory in organizational analysis.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Research has established that groups are pervaded by feelings. But group emotion research within organizational science has suffered in recent years from a lack of terminological clarity, from a narrow focus on small groups, and from an overemphasis on micro-processes of emotion transmission. We address those problems by reviewing and systematically integrating relevant work conducted not only in organizational science, but also in psychology and sociology. We offer a definition of group emotions and sort the conceptual space along four dimensions: group emotion responses, recognition, regulation, and reiteration. We provide evidence that group emotions occur at all levels of analysis, including levels beyond small work groups. The accounts of group emotion emergence at higher levels of analysis differ substantially between organizational science, psychology, and sociology.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

The corporate headquarters (CHQ) is the central organizational unit in the contemporary corporation and is critical for value creation in the overall firm. Since the early 1960s, a significant body of research on the CHQ has evolved along two separate but related streams. The first stream focuses on the CHQ in the multibusiness firm, whereas the second stream concerns the CHQ in the multinational firm. Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Many of the scandalous organizational practices to have come to light in the last decade—rigging LIBOR, misselling payment protection insurance, rampant Wall Street insider trading, large-scale bribery of foreign officials, and the packaging and sale of toxic securities to naïve investors—require ethically problematic judgments and behaviors. However, dominant models of workplace unethical behavior fail to account for what we have learned from moral psychology and cognitive neuroscience in the past two decades about how and why people make the moral decisions they do. In this review, we explain how intuition, affect, physiology, and identity support and inform more deliberative reasoning process in the construction and enactment of moral behavior.

The objectives of our review are threefold. First, we summarize the formal literature by "model families" —classes of models sharing the same analytical structure—to highlight sharply the behavioral assumptions being made. Specifically, we discuss model families involving (a) adaptation through search and learning by individual agents, (b) mutual adjustment of interacting agents, and (c) information aggregation in organizational decision-making. Second, we examine to what extent these models of bounded rationality in organizations are in fact consistent with the behavioral evidence in psychology and other related fields. Finally, we discuss opportunities for further research that strengthens the links between formal modelling in organizations research, and its behavioral foundations. In particular, we highlight the promise of experimental methods that translate organizational models to multiple-subject experiments in the behavioral laboratory.

Abstract / 摘要 (EN):

Despite admonishments that anthropomorphizing represents a serious error in scientific thinking, this review shows that anthropomorphizing has been a critically important tool for developing influential theories in organization studies. Analyzing the literatures related to organizational identity and organizational knowledge reveals how organization theorists build on their rich and highly accessible understanding of humans (i.e. the self and others) to (1) make guesses and sense of organizational anomalies, (2) articulate theoretical mechanisms to build stronger theories, and (3) create plausible stories that facilitate sensegiving. Our review shows how some theorists by using particular approaches were able to use anthropomorphizing to generate new organizational theories, yet anthropomorphizing does not always lead to such salutary outcomes. Anthropomorphizing is less likely to enhance theorizing in organization studies when the theorist does not sufficiently doubt their guesses about organizational phenomena, fails to develop stronger explanations of the "how" and "why" of the theory thereby only partially exploring the social mechanisms underlying the proposed relationships, and fails in their attempts to tell the theory's "story".

尽管有告诫称拟人化代表了科学思维中的严重错误, 但本综述表明, 拟人化一直是组织研究中开发有影响力理论的关键工具。通过分析组织认同和组织知识相关的文献, 本文揭示了组织理论家如何利用他们对人类(即自我和他人)丰富且极易获得的理解来: (1) 对组织异常现象进行猜测和解读; (2) 阐明理论机制以构建更强大的理论; 以及 (3) 创造有助于意义赋予的合情理故事。我们的综述展示了一些理论家如何通过使用特定方法, 能够利用拟人化来生成新的组织理论, 然而拟人化并不总是能带来这种有益的结果。当理论家对其关于组织现象的猜测缺乏足够的怀疑, 未能对理论的“如何”和“为何”开发出更强有力的解释(从而仅部分探索了所提关系背后的社会机制), 并且在讲述理论“故事”的尝试中失败时, 拟人化就不太可能增强组织研究中的理论化。
